RECOGNIZING OUR LEGACY. SEIZING THE MOMENT. ENVISIONING OUR FUTURE. April 10 -11, 2014 Hilton San Francisco Financial District San Francisco, California www.apahenational.org

On behalf of the Board of Directors of Asian Pacific Americans in Higher Education (APAHE), I welcome you to our 27th annual national conference.

I believe this year may be our best and most memorable event, with carefully selected speakers, thought-provoking panels and workshops, unexpected performances, and the opportunity to meet amazing people from all over the country.

Our program reflects a deep sense of pride and accomplishment as we continue to address and celebrate the diversity among us, as well as that which ties us together. Our conference theme this year, "Recognizing our Legacy, Seizing the Moment, Envisioning our Future", highlights and focuses on understanding our past, where we are in the present, and looking to build a stronger future by bringing different generations of diverse leaders together.

It's an exciting time for APAHE as we continue to grow and adapt. We have grown tremendously over the past few years, and I believe this is the result of our Board's shared commitment to be responsive to the myriad needs of the communities and people we represent and serve combined with your vote of confidence in our organization.

I want to thank the APAHE Planning Committee for all their energy and passion in making this conference a heartfelt and engaging experience for each of you. This conference is truly from our hearts to yours.

Throughout this conference, I ask you to stay engaged and help us shape the future of APAHE. My personal thanks goes out to all of you for taking time out of your busy schedule to join us!

Cordially,

Wyman M. Fong President, Asian Pacific Americans in Higher Education

la. Navigating Intersecting Identities Through

Authentic Dialog

HILTON HOTEL, JACKSON ROOM

The outside world sees our race, gender and size at first glance. However, we are much more complex and hold multiple identities that we navigate on a daily basis. What does it really mean to hold "intersecting identities"? How do we navigate our different communities? This roundtable is an opportunity to build community through dialogue and reflection about who we are as complex individuals who may hold intersecting identities and memberships in communities that are not historically accepted in the AAPI community. Participants will be able to share their perspectives in a safe environment.

PRESENTERS:

Allison Lau, Ph.D., Associate Dean for Counseling & Student Judicial Affairs, Highline Community College

1b. "Our Words, Our Worlds" — Autobiographical Stories by APA Undocumented Students HILTON HOTEL, SANSOME ROOM

Of the two million undocumented youth and young adults currently living in the U.S., about 10% are Asian. In the UC system alone, about 45% of undocumented students are Asian. A small number of APA undocumented students have stepped out of the shadows and are boldly sharing their stories. Learn how APA undocumented youth leaders are using storytelling as a powerful tool for healing, advocacy, and empowerment.

PRESENTERS:

Akiko Aspillaga, Community Organizer, Asian Students Promoting Immigrant Rights through Education (ASPIRE) Catherine Eusebio, Board Member, United We Dream Katharine Gin, J.D. (moderator), Cofounder & Executive Director, Educators for Fair Consideration (Moderator) New Latthivongskorn, Co-founder, Pre-Health Dreamers Mario Lio, Construction Project Manager, Rebarber Enterprises

Ic. Asian Women United: Producing Educational Materials through a Community Organization HILTON HOTEL, MONTGOMERY ROOM

Since 1976, AWU has operated as a volunteer run non-profit, and has produced educational materials that spotlight the experiences of AAPI women. AWU materials, including Making Waves: Writings By and About Asian American Women and Slaying the Dragon: Asian Women in U.S. Television and Film, have been used in Asian American Studies classrooms since 1982. The panel will present how AWU created content for community use and furthers the discourse around AAPI women in higher education.

PRESENTERS:

Eunice Kwon, Ph.D., Coordinator of Asian Pacific American Student Development, University of California, Berkeley Hannah Michell, MFA, Lecturer, Asian American Studies, University of California, Berkeley

Evelyn Rodriguez, Ph.D., Professor of Sociology at University of San Francisco and Director of USF's Asian Pacific American Studies Program

Vivien Kim Thorp, Communications Manager at Meals On Wheels of San Francisco

ld. The Challenge of Mobilizing Asian American College Students in the Central Valley HILTON HOTEL, WASHINGTON ROOM

The Asian Faculty and Staff Association (AFSA) at California State University, Fresno, administered a survey to its Southeast Asian students (including Hmong, Cambodian, Laotian, and Vietnamese); in order to identify obstacles they face in school,

Poster Session: Factors That Motivate Faculty to Participate in Professional Development Activities

HILTON HOTEL, 2ND FLOOR LOBBY

Faculty Professional Development (FPD) improves faculty job performance and student success, reduce job isolation and increase job satisfaction. Higher education work environment and faculty demographics changed, FPD changed in content and formats of delivery caused some problems in FPD. Low participation by faculty in FPD activities, mismatch of FPD programs that do not meet faculty needs, and changing faculty motivations and perceptions about the value of FPD are problems facing FPD providers and policy makers. The purpose of this mixed methods study was to identify factors that motivate faculty to attend FPD and to evaluate faculty perception about the value of faculty development.

Fong, Ph.D., Professor, Ethnic Studies/Director and Principal Investigator, Full Circle Project, California State University, Sacramento (Discussant) Simon Kim, Ph.D., Professor, California State University, Long Beach (Chair) Thavery Lay-Bounpraseuth, Asian & Pacific Islander Coordinator at Cal Poly Pomona Karen Nakai, Professor, California State University, Long Beach Jean Paul Nguyen, Enrollment Counselor at California State University, East Bay Chao Vang, Ethnic Studies Department, California State University, Sacramento

2b. Case Study: UC Berkeley's Undocumented

Student Program HILTON HOTEL, SANSOME ROOM

The Undocumented Student Program (USP) at UC Berkeley is a program designed to meet the holistic needs of undocumented students at a top tier research one university. This session will describe and analyze the development towards creating an inclusive campus climate in serving undocumented students. It will also address the unique racial and ethnic conditions and experiences of API undocumented students in higher education and identify the barriers to their success. With an introduction to the academic counseling model used by USP and UC Berkeley's Educational Opportunity Program (EOP), participants will learn how to implement holistic and solution focused frameworks when advising undocumented students. Furthermore, participants will also develop strategies on how to collaborate with campus and community resources to create allies, access, equity and inclusion.

Michael Sexton, Vice President for Enrollment Management, Santa Clara University

Ken Woods, Executive Director, Higher Education, The College Board

2d. The Impact of Cultural Values on APIs in Higher Education

HILTON HOTEL, WASHINGTON ROOM

This presentation will provide a better understanding of how traditional Asian cultural values impact API students in higher education. Specifically, this session will present empirical evidence on real life experiences of college-going students, including the tensions and psychological challenges impacting their academic performances. The presenters will share promising practices for supporting API students as they attempt to negotiate their Asian cultural values within a Western academic environment.

PRESENTERS:

Zachary Baillie, Ph.D. Candidate, Department of English Arkansas Tech University Hwa Seong "Christine" Oh, Career Counselor/Diversity Coordinator, Saint Mary's College of California Min Wang, Ph.D. Candidate, The University of Alabama

2e. Professional Competencies for Student Affairs Professionals HILTON HOTEL, MASON I ROOM

Looking to advance your career in Student Affairs. Whether you are an experienced manager or new professional, professional skill building is an ongoing process. To help us along the way, ACPA and NASPA have published a Professional Competency Areas for Student Affairs Practitioners. This document serves as a guide for the knowledge, skills, and attitudes of a successful Student Affairs Professional of all levels. This session will introduce participants to these competencies, discuss applications of the competencies as well as new and emerging competencies in the field

PRESENTER

Arnold Paguio, Student Organization Coordinator, San Francisco State University

2f. The Emerging Executive: API Women in Higher Education

HILTON HOTEL, MASON II ROOM

Higher education panels commonly feature "seasoned" female administrators providing accounts of their journey in administration and provide wisdom of how to succeed. This current panel will take a more "participant observer" perspective as API women and discuss how they are currently navigating higher education administration. Included in their presentations will be their career paths, passions, detours, challenges, support networks, successes and future goals.

PRESENTERS

Christine Iijima Hall, Ph.D., Retired Higher Education Administrator

3d. Challenging Balance: API Women on Leading, Family and Changing the Landscape HILTON HOTEL, WASHINGTON ROOM

Lean In and Battle Hymn of the Tiger Mother created an enormous amount of dialogue about working parents and how race, culture, leadership and the eternal search for work life balance collide in our day to day lives. The larger questions we should be asking though is what it means for us as API women in leadership roles – what does balance look like with children, parents, work and other relationships? Does being a leader always mean giving up everything to get that coveted position, or are there degrees of leadership and ways to make an impact without being a CEO? Join four funny and experienced API leaders as we discuss leadership, being a working parent, what supportive environments could (and shouldn't) look like, and what that means day to day in the context of being an Asian American woman.

PRESENTERS:

Rosie Rimando-Chareunsap, Ed.D., Vice President of Student Services, South Seattle Community College Kimi Shigetani, Vice President, Community College League of California Tram Vo-Kumamoto, Dean of Math and Science, Chabot College Hvon Chu Yi-Baker, Director, MOSAIC Cross Cultural Center, San Jose State University

3e. Managing the Powerful & Influential in Higher Education Projects HILTON HOTEL, MASON I ROOM

Effective management of stakeholders' needs and expectations is crucial to the success of all projects. Workshop participants are invited to learn and share how to leverage their soft skills to manage stakeholders in higher-ed's project environment.

PRESENTERS:

Angela Chang, Management Analyst, University of California, Berkeley School of Law

3f. Mixed, Not Mixed Up: Exploring the Power of Self Narrative in the Development of Multiracial College Students HILTON HOTEL, MASON II ROOM

The dynamics of our country's changing demographics manifest in our higher education system, as more multiracial students step foot on campus. In order to serve them, we must learn about mixed-race identity development. Attendees in this session will participate in exploration of race as a social construct and how mixed-race people challenge established paradigms. Participants will also develop personalized storytelling and communication skills to prepare them for future conversations.

PRESENTERS

Ardith Feroglia, Academic Adviser, University of Washington Melissa Sinclair, Coordinator, Students with Dependents Program, University of California, Los Angeles

Poster Session: The Unique Experiences of Laotian American College Students: An Underrepresented Subgroup Within the Asian American Population HILTON HOTEL, 2ND FLOOR LOBBY

Lao American college students' holistic identity development was examined in this study. As the U. S. Census (2010) indicated college graduation rate for Asian Americans as a whole was 49.7% compared to 27.8% for the overall U.S. population. Disaggregated data showed graduation rates of 26.2% for Vietnamese Americans, 14% for Hmong Americans, 13.7% for Cambodian Americans, and a very depressing rate of 11.9% for Laotian Americans. This discussion explores the distinctive experiences of Laotian American college students, critical strategic challenges and policy implications.

4a. First-Generation College Students Navigating Higher Education and the Role of Faculty HILTON HOTEL, JACKSON ROOM

The presenters will explain some common issues that First-Generation College Students have as they try to pursue higher education. As the first in their family to go to college, they may not know what to expect nor do they have anyone to turn to when they struggle in school. These are outsiders taking on the task of figuring out the unwritten rules of higher education and they need advocates and insiders who will take the time to listen and help them navigate this difficult course.

PRESENTERS

Jackson Yan, Instructor, Skyline College Skyline College Students: Jeffrey Hee, Paul Nguyen, Eddiezon Santiago

4b. Promoting API Student Mental Health in Higher Education

HILTON HOTEL, SANSOME ROOM

College students experience mental health challenges that may be detrimental to their academic success. In particular, social and cultural influences may prevent APA students from articulating their need for help. Each higher education professional has a unique role to promote help-seeking behaviors. Presenters will discuss the important connection between mental health and academic success and share strategies on how to promote mental health awareness among APA students collectively across campus.

PRESENTERS

Kelly Bui, Mental Health Program Assistant, Ohlone College Mai Moua, Hmong Outreach Volunteer, Asian Pacific Community Counseling

Lee Jay Vue; Coordinator, Asian Pacific Community Counseling Luwissa Wong, Mental Health Program Assistant, Ohlone College

4c. Our Paths to Follow: Scholarship as Social Justice for 2nd Generation Pin@s from San Diego, California

HILTON HOTEL, MONTGOMERY ROOM

Those who view higher education/academia as an important space to effect change with the community are, at times, dismissed as elitist, inaccessible, or "not down for the cause." The individuals on this roundtable have been engaged in connecting "community" and "academia" for many years, encouraging the idea that education is an ongoing, inclusive, dynamic processes that happen far beyond the classroom walls.

4f. TESTED

HILTON HOTEL, MASON II ROOM

Stuyvesant, Bronx Science, Brooklyn Tech: some of NYC's top ranked public high schools. Each year, thousands of eighth graders compete to secure coveted spots by taking a single test. While blacks and Hispanics constitute 70% of the city's public school population, they represent only 11% at these schools, with a majority Asian American. This documentary will follow a diverse group of students trying to pass the test, as well as the issues surrounding access to a high-quality public education, affirmative action, and the model-minority myth.

APAHE Opening Reception/Raffle Recognizing Our Legacy... Legaci HILTON BALLROOM, 3RD FLOOR Live Performance and Q&A by Legaci

"The most visible yet invisible pop figures in the entire world." Known all over the world as Legaci, these four gentlemen have been wowing audiences with their harmonies and vocal acrobats. Del, Chris, Micah, and C-dac all hail from Northern California and for years shared a passion to make music that moves people; And move people they did. Legaci's claim to fame was through Youtube. With over 28 million views and counting, it was Legaci's Youtube channel and their cover of Justin Bieber's smash hit "Baby" that got Bieber and his manager's attention. They were asked to tour with Justin and be his official backing group. Since then they've performed at over 200 shows across 30 different countries, and appeared in major media outlets including American Idol, Oprah, and Saturday Night Live just to name a few. Legaci is ready to build a Legacy!

The New York Times gracefully calls them on a front page feature,

1b. Advancing Asian American and Pacific Islander Agenda in Higher Education: Current Efforts and Future Prospects HILTON HOTEL, SANSOME ROOM

This panel session aims to highlight the power of collaborative work between researchers, practitioners, and institutional leaders to instigate sustainable change for the Asian American and Pacific Islander (AAPI) students in higher education. Two major efforts are the focus of this panel: a partnership with three Asian American, Native American and Pacific Islander-Serving Institutions (AANAPISIs) and an AAPI data disaggregation campaign in collaboration with the California State University's (CSU) AAPI Initiative. Both of these initiatives serve as models of co-investigative research and its potential and success in 1) identifying successful and sustainable interventions to improve AAPI student outcomes; 2) building leverage for access to greater resources, and 3) advancing the AAPI student agenda through institutional and social change.

PRESENTERS

Timothy P. Fong, Ph.D., Professor, Ethnic Studies/Director and Principal Investigator, Full Circle Project, California State University, Sacramento

He was associate vice president of academic affairs at Arkansas Tech University and an assistant professor at the University of Houston-Victoria. Dr. Esteban was also a full-time instructor at the College of Business Administration of the University of the Philippines.

GORDON FOWLER

Gordon Fowler is the President/CEO of 3fold Communications, an award-winning strategic integrated marketing firm in Sacramento, CA. A true entrepreneur, Gordon launched 3fold with a goal of providing integrated marketing and advertising services differently, including: smart creative, solutions-oriented strategy, and deeper, collaborative partnership with clients.

And it worked. From 3fold's first client in 2004 through today, clients have responded to a creative, problem-solving, personalized approach to their marketing and outreach needs.

Over the past 10 years, 3fold Communications has become one of Sacramento's fastest growing creative firms. They have worked with over 200 clients nationwide and built a strong reputation for successfully helping bold brands connect their products and services to their consumers with smart and creative campaigns that are noticed in a new and refreshing way.

Under Gordon's leadership, 3fold Communications has won numerous industry, business and philanthropy awards (we wouldn't want to waste your time reading that here-but go to our website where you can spend hours reading through our shameless selfpromotion!)

In addition to building one of the strongest and most creative teams in the region, Gordon has built an agency that includes community leadership and service as part of its central mission. Members of the 3fold team currently serve on 25 nonprofit or community boards, 11 advisory committees and have donated more than $200,000 per year in pro bono PR, marketing and consulting services to nonprofit and community-based organizations.

ALEXANDER GONZALEZ

Alexander Gonzalez, Ph.D., has served more than three decades as a professor and education leader, including the last decade as the 11th president of California State University, Sacramento, one of the largest universities in the California State University 23-campus system. Prior to his appointment to California State University, Sacramento, Dr. Gonzalez served from 1997 to 2003 as president of California State University, San Marcos, where he made sweeping changes. Before leading San Marcos, he served for 18 years at Fresno State first as faculty and chair in the Psychology Department before becoming provost and vice president for Academic Affairs from 1991-1997.

A native Californian and the first person in his family to graduate from college, Dr. Gonzalez has devoted his career to ensuring greater opportunities for students. Dr. Gonzalez holds a master's degree and doctorate in psychology from UC Santa Cruz. He received his bachelor's degree in history from Pomona College, where he graduated with honors and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He spent a year at Stanford University as a postdoctoral fellow of the Ford Foundation and the National Research Council conducting research on the psychology of time. He also attended Harvard Law School and served in the United States Air Force.

Dr. Gonzalez serves as a board member of Valley Vision, an organization committed to improving the Sacramento Region. His previous service to the community includes the boards of directors for Sutter Health and the Crocker Art Museum. Dr. Gonzalez also currently serves as a Director of the National Endowment for Financial Education (NEFE). Additional past service includes an appointment by Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger to the California Student Aid Commission and six years as a commissioner for the Western Association of Schools and Colleges – the accrediting agency for higher education institutions in California and Hawaii. He also was chair of the Governing Board of the Hispanic Association of Colleges and Universities and was a member of the President's Advisory Commission on Educational Excellence for Hispanic Americans.

PATRICK HAYASHI

Pat began his career at UC Berkeley in 1966 as a campus mail carrier. He later worked in budget, accounting, contracts and grants and personnel. In 1969 he began teaching freshman writing in the new Asian American Studies program. He served as head of the program from 1971-73 and appointed Ron Takaki as the program's first tenured professor. In 1973, he left Berkeley for Sendai, Japan where he studied educational sociology at Tohoku University. He returned to Berkeley and earned his master's and doctoral degrees in public policy

In 1984, at the age of forty, he restarted his career as an analyst in student services and head of student conduct. In 1986, he was appointed special assistant to Chancellor Michael Heyman. In 1988, in the midst of a bitter controversy over Asian American admissions, Chancellor Heyman appointed him associate vice chancellor for admissions and enrollment. With that appointment, he became the highest ranking API administrator in the UC system. While overseeing admissions, he initiated Berkeley's move to adopt holistic review procedures and to view applicants as more than the sum of their grades and test scores.

In 1999, Pat joined UC's Office of the President where he served as associate president under President Richard Atkinson. He was chief architect of Atkinson's challenge to the SAT. During that time, he also served as a trustee of the College Board, which administers the SAT program, and tried to convince the Board to sever its ties with the National Merit Scholarship Program on the grounds that it advanced a fraudulent, indefensible concept of merit that unfairly discriminated against students of color and disadvantaged students. After failing to persuade the College Board, he initiated a campaign at UC that, in 2005, led all UC campuses to drop out of the program. He remains a staunch critic of standardized college admissions tests.

After retiring in 2004, Pat took up art. At the invitation of the US State Department, last October, he travelled to Kyrgyzstan to give lectures on the Japanese American concentration camps and master classes at art colleges on how to paint with smoke, a medium he discovered by accident while nearly setting his kitchen ablaze. (You can see work at PATRICKHAYASHI.com) He has also started singing lessons and theoretically goes to CrossFit three times a week.

Kern Community College District is proud to be a sponsor of Asian Pacific Americans in Higher Education

Kern Community College District (KCCD) serves communities over 24,800 square miles in parts of Kern, Tulare, Inyo, Mono, and San Bernardino counties through the programs of Bakersfield College, Cerro Coso College and Porterville College. Governed by a locally elected Board of Trustees, the district's colleges offer programs and services that develop student potential and create opportunities for our citizens.

As Chancellor, she filled the top vacancy in the district which operates Chabot College in Hayward and Las Positas College in Livermore. The two colleges together serve more than 26,000 students in the East Bay Area. She became the fifth chancellor and the first African American chancellor to lead the district.

Dr. Jackson, served as president of College of Alameda (COA) Peralta Community College District. Prior to her presidency, Dr. Jackson was vice president of instruction at COA and an instructional dean at Fresno City College.

Dr. Jackson received her doctorate in Educational Administration at The University of Texas at Austin, and holds a Master's in Education emphasis in Curriculum and Instruction and a Bachelor of Arts in Liberal Studies from California State University, Fresno.

LEGACI

The New York Times gracefully calls them on a front page feature, "The most visible yet invisible pop figures in the entire world."

Known all over the world as Legaci, these four gentlemen have been wowing audiences with their harmonies and vocal acrobats. Del, Chris, Micah, and C-dac all hail from Northern California and for years shared a passion to make music that moves people – and move people they did.

Legaci's claim to fame was through Youtube. With over 28 million views and counting, it was Legaci's Youtube channel and their cover of Justin Bieber's smash hit "Baby" that got Bieber and his manager's attention. They were asked to tour with Justin Bieber and be his official backing group. Since then they have performed at over 200 shows across 30 different countries, and appeared in major media outlets including American Idol, Oprah, and Saturday Night Live just to name a few. Legaci is ready to build a Legacy!

LEROY M. MORISHITA

Leroy Morishita, Ed.D., currently serves as President of California State University, East Bay. He arrived at Cal State East Bay from San Francisco State University, where he served as Executive Vice President for Administration and Finance and Chief Financial Officer. Dr. Morishita has more than 30 years of experience in higher education as an educator and administrator. He first worked in the California State University system from 1978 to 1981 as counseling coordinator and counselor for the Educational Opportunity Program at San Francisco State University.

Dr. Morishita has been a commissioner of the Western Association for Senior Colleges and Universities since 2007, and chair of its Finance & Operations Committee since 2010.

ROSIE RIMANDO-CHAREUNSAP

Rosie Rimando-Chareunsap currently serves as the Vice President for Student Services at South Seattle Community College, where she began her higher education career in 2000 working in precollege TRiO programs, Educational Talent Search and Upward Bound. Keeping her heart and professional values firmly rooted in TRiO and in serving underrepresented populations, she has also served the college and the community in leadership roles in Outreach and Admissions, student success initiatives including a Title III grant project, and with the college's first AANAPISI (Asian American Native American Pacific Islander Serving Institution) grants and designations. Rosie earned her Bachelor degrees in English and Comparative American Cultures from Washington State University (WSU), a Master of Public Administration from University of Washington, and a Doctorate of Education in Higher Education Administration back at WSU.

AL MURATSUCHI

Assemblymember Al Muratsuchi served as a prosecutor and a school board member before he was elected in November of 2012 to represent California's 66th Assembly District, which includes the cities of Gardena, Hermosa Beach, Lomita, the Los Angeles communities of Harbor City and Harbor Gateway, Manhattan Beach, Palos Verdes Estates, Rancho Palos Verdes, Redondo Beach, Rolling Hills, Rolling Hills Estates, Torrance and the unincorporated communities of El Camino Village and West Carson.

Muratsuchi served as a prosecutor and Deputy Attorney General with the California Department of Justice for over eleven years. Prior to joining the Department of Justice in 2001, he was a prosecutor with the Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office and the Santa Ana City Attorney's Office. Muratsuchi also served as a Torrance Unified School Board member for over seven years. As School Board President, Muratsuchi played a key role in initiating the largest school repair and modernization program in the district's history.

Assemblymember Muratsuchi is a graduate of the University of California, Berkeley and the UCLA School of Law, and an alumnus of the Coro Foundation Public Affairs Fellows Program.
