On behalf of the Asian Pacific Americans in Higher Education (APAHE) Board, I welcome you to this year's dynamic conference!

Our theme this year is "Radical Hope: Leading with Love, Courage, and Action." Radical hope is the antithesis to trauma caused by oppressive social conditions. This theme encourages us to adopt a reflective practice to achieve transformation through the act of radical hope and inspires us to embody what is necessary for our healing. In the space of radical hope lies a new vision for a future, without the limitations of the past.

APAHE was founded in 1987. Our mission is dedicated to enhancing the educational opportunities for Asian and Pacific American students; promoting and supporting the hiring, retention, and advancement of qualified Asian and Pacific American faculty, staff, and administrators; and creating a better understanding of issues in the public affecting Asian and Pacific Americans in higher education. We encourage you to be a part of our growing voices.

As you look over this year's program, I believe you will find a variety of relevant and inclusive topics for your consideration. At APAHE, our goal is that you will find yourself in a safe learning environment with leaders and practitioners throughout the nation who have a commitment to your personal and professional growth. We further encourage you to reach out to others and to build not only your professional and career networks, but to grow your extended family.

On behalf of the APAHE Board, I welcome you to Oakland, California. I look forward to meeting and connecting with as many of you as possible in the days ahead. Have a great conference!

In Community Spirit,

Dear Esteemed Attendees, Colleagues, and Honored Guests:

Welcome to the 2024 APAHE National Conference—Radical Hope: Leading with Love, Courage, and Action. With excitement and anticipation, we gather this week, united in our commitment to embrace radical hope and, in doing so, manifest love and model courageous leadership as part of our action in the work we do in higher education.

When our planning committee began discussing conference themes, we wanted to intentionally adopt a theme that reflected the human experience and how each of us grappled with a personal and collective crisis. None of us are spared from the human condition nor the profound realization of the fragility of life—but how we respond to these challenges tells us everything about our leadership. Students arrive at our colleges and universities with a literal and figurative backpack containing their life stories, joys, heartaches, and struggles. As educators, we have an incredible opportunity to lead with love, courage, and action—helping our students “unpack their bags” with extraordinary care and empathy.

Radical hope starkly contrasts the trauma inflicted by oppressive social circumstances. It instills within us the belief to instigate positive transformations and imagine a brighter future. While this vision may not be entirely clear or comprehensible, it urges us to embrace introspection as a pathway to affect change through proactive radical hope. This concept motivates us to embody the essential elements for personal and communal healing. Within the realm of radical hope, a fresh vision emerges for a future devoid of past constraints. Our hope is founded on love, courage, and action.

LOVE reminds us to continue the heart work of APAHE, celebrating and honoring the richness of our community and culture. We lead with COURAGE to create brave spaces that dismantle and disrupt systemic oppression that creates barriers for Asian Americans, Native Hawaiians, and Pacific Islanders (AANHPI) in higher education systems, especially in the wake of the rise in hate crimes and violence against our community. We move forward with ACTION to advance initiatives and reimagine and create a new reality for our AANHPI community.

How will you manifest radical hope and lead with love, courage, and action to open and clear paths with barriers, roadblocks, and inequities so our community can thrive? Throughout this conference, we encourage you to make the most of your time here by engaging in thought-provoking discussions, participating in empowering workshops and forming meaningful connections with fellow attendees. Together, we will explore how we can harness the power of hope, love, and courage to affect meaningful and lasting change within our institutions and communities. We encourage you to approach this conference with an open heart and a willingness to learn, grow, and be inspired.

Finally, we wish to express our sincere gratitude to the 2024 APAHE Conference Planning Team, and our subcommittee leads for the hours of work in organizing, coordinating, and executing the largest APAHE conference ever! This conference would not be possible without the “heart work” and the hard work that each of our planning team members gave to provide an unforgettable experience for all. We thank you for being part of this incredible journey with us, knowing we can create a more inclusive, equitable, and compassionate higher education landscape.

CONCURRENT SESSION DESCRIPTIONS

THURSDAY, APRIL 4, 2024
(10:45 AM TO 11:45 AM)
GROUP A

A1 - EAST 2 HALL

CALLING OUT CALL-OUT & CANCEL CULTURE: HOW TO LEAD WITH LOVE AND CARE IN DIFFICULT CONVERSATIONS

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate
Students

Whether intentionally or unintentionally, people in our communities hurt us, and we hurt them. We repeat what we see in cancel culture, where people get publicly discredited and punished on social media, then ostracize those who have wronged us as a way of accountability. In this workshop, students and student support staff can learn about the 3 C's (Calling Out, Calling On, and Calling In) as a means of expanding how we can vocalize our pain and hurt while still holding our loved ones accountable. Learn how to invite people into a conversation instead of a fight.

Presenters:

- Helen Dang Ngo, BA, Program Coordinator, University of Massachusetts Boston AANAPISI program

A2 – GRAND BALLROOM AB THE “OTHER” BOX: HOW MULTIRACIAL STUDENTS GET LOST IN THE DATA

Target Audience: Senior-Level Professionals

This panel centers on the nuances of the mixed-race experience and how we can all work to better support multiracial AAPIs. Presenters will begin by sharing their experiences as mixed-race students and professionals. This will be followed by a discussion of data related to mixed-race students—including testimonials from students and documented research—and the presence (or lack) of multiracial programming and services.

The final portion of the panel will feature proposed solutions regarding the lack of services and community for multiracial students on our campuses and make suggestions as to how to build institutional infrastructure for the growing mixed-race student population.

Presenters:

- Sinclair Tirona, M.A., Program Manager; Associate Faculty, Communication Studies, MiraCosta Community College
- Tina Oshima Helmstreit, Program Manager, MiraCosta College
- Nina Moskowitz, M.A., Learning Specialist, University of California, Berkeley
- Jonathan Ng, MEd, UMOJA Coordinator/Counselor, Cuyamaca Community College
- Emma Blackthorne, PhD, Senior Dean of Research and Planning, Contra Costa Community College District

A3 – GRAND BALLROOM C THE SIKHS OF FIJI

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

This session will explore and analyze the history and culture of the Sikh community in Fiji. First, we will discuss the history of Fiji (pre- and post-colonial) and the history of the Sikh diaspora transnationally. Second, we will explore the influence of colonialism and imperialism on Vaka Viti (“the Pacific Way”) and the Sikh Panth (“the Sikh community”). Finally, we will discuss the present realities facing Sikhs in Fiji and abroad.

Presenters:

- Amrik Johal, Ph.D., Assistant Dean of Students, Irvine Valley College

A4 – GRAND BALLROOM F LEADING WITH LOVE, CO-CREATING CONNECTIONS AND COMMUNITY: CSULB’S PROJECT RESILIENCE PEER MENTOR PROGRAM FOR AANHPI STUDENTS

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate
Students

The Project Resilience Peer Mentor Program (PMP) at CSULB promotes wellness through one-on-one peer mentoring and group programming that facilitates a sense of belonging and appreciates cultural differences for AANHPI students. Mentors actively work to increase mentees' knowledge and access to campus and community wellness resources and collaborate with departments and offices to support AANHPI and wellness programs. This workshop will feature examples of peer-facilitated activities which have broadened the reach to our AANHPI students. The PMP is one of four programs of Project Resilience, a U.S. Department of Education AANAPISI grant in its second year of implementation (2021–2026).

Presenters:

- Diane Hayashino, Ph.D., Staff Psychologist at Counseling & Psychological Services, CA State University, Long Beach
- Barbara Kim, Ph.D., Professor, Chair, and Undergraduate Advisor in the Dept. of Asian and Asian American Studies, Principal Investigator, CSULB AANAPISI Project Resilience California State University, Long Beach
- Renee Te, M.S., Project Director for Project Resilience, CSULB

A5 – GRAND BALLROOM GH FROM INCARCERATION TO BECOMING A RISING SCHOLAR & ACTIVIST

Target Audience: New Professionals

This workshop will include the journey of AAPI scholars and activists who are justice impacted and thriving in Community College. Attendees will engage, reflect, and learn about the experiences of justice impacted students and how the Rising Scholars program has become instrumental towards student success, self-liberation, and healing. Those who attend this workshop will learn about the transformative and social justice praxis that further elevate AAPI students in Community College and beyond.

Presenters:

- Hossna Sadat Ahadi, Ed.D., Professor & Counselor, Palomar College
- Sinatulutuluiamoana Venise Laie, current community college student, majoring in AODS and Human Development major, ASG VP of Events and Rising Scholar at Palomar College

A6 – JUNIOR BALLROOM 1 STUDENT-READY R1 AANAPISIS: UNPACKING THE UC AANAPISI AND IMPLICATIONS FOR THE FIELD OF HIGHER EDUCATION

Target Audience: Senior-Level Professionals

As of Fall 2023, eight of nine UC Campuses are federally designated as AANAPISIs. In this panel discussion, experts will highlight the unique role of UCs within the AANAPISI ecosystem. Representatives from three UC campuses will provide insights from across the state of California, demonstrating the necessity to “reimagine” how we think about AANAPISIs both within the UC and among the higher education community at large. Panelists will highlight the potential for supporting

AA&NHPI student success and well-being and engage with the question: What does it mean to be a research-intensive, public, AANAPISI university system?

Presenters:

- Willa Mei Kurland, M.A., PhD Student and Research Associate, UCLA
- Robert T. Teranishi, Ph.D. Professor of Education Morgan and Helen Chu Endowed Chair of Asian American Studies, University of California, Los Angeles
- Katherine J. Parpana, M.A., Director of the Strategic Asian and Pacific Islander Retention Initiative, Office of Asian and Pacific Islander Academic Student Success, Doctoral Student, UC Davis School of Education, University of California, Davis
- Mariam B. Lam, Ph.D., Vice Chancellor & Chief Diversity Officer, Associate Professor of Comparative Literature Cooperating Faculty in Ethnic Studies, University of California, Riverside
- Dadao Hou, Ph.D., Director of Policy and Planning, Office for Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion, University of California, Santa Cruz

A7 – JUNIOR BALLROOM 2 FORGING OUR FUTURE: UNVEILING THE CHALLENGES IN HIGHER EDUCATION FOR PACIFIC ISLANDERS

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

Since 1986, the Pacific Islands Student Association has assisted and cultivated UCLA's student leaders. Despite this, Pacific Islander students remain significantly underrepresented and face many challenges when navigating higher education institutions. This workshop demonstrates how student-initiated action develops Pacific Islander student leaders through the experiences of current students and staff. This program also takes into account how crucial it is for Pacific Islander teachers and university employees to build a strong community that promotes Pacific Islander student admission, retention, and leadership development.

Presenters:

- Perzianee Devoux, Community Programs Office (CPO) Transportation Services Manager, University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA)
- Jiorden King, Pacific Islands' Student Association (PISA) President, University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA)
- Theodore Malepeai, Improving Nurturing Sustaining Pacific Islander Retention and Education (INSPIRE) Project Coordinator

A8 – JUNIOR BALLROOM 3-4 ON STRIVING & THRIVING: APIA SCHOLAR MENTAL HEALTH & WELLNESS

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

This workshop will focus on current mental health challenges and stressors common for AANHPI college students. We will present findings from a recent research initiative at APIA Scholars and host a space for discussing students' financial concerns, academic stressors, identity distress, and familial worries. We will also present recommendations for trauma-informed practices, and programming that attend to AANHPI student needs across agencies and institutions. We'll close with space for attendees to brainstorm interventions they might launch at their respective institutions and discuss how they might overcome barriers to equity and wellness.

Presenters:

- Marcia Liu, Ph.D., HCAP Mental Health Specialist, CUNY Hunter College
- Christina Lambert, M.S., Associate Vice President of Strategic Initiatives, APIA Scholars

A9 – ROOM 201 MAPPING OUR LEGACY: RADICAL HOPE FOR THE COURAGE TO LEAD WITH AUTHENTICITY

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

Mapping Our Legacy: Radical Hope for the Courage to Lead with Authenticity is a ceremony of self-love, courage, and action framed through the CHamoru concept of inafa'maolek, interpreted as a way to practice "striving for harmony" within self and among the community. Join us to talk about centering leadership in a way that honors our ancestors. To align cultural ways of knowing and being with our work, we will create a space that links our past, present, and future to define leadership legacy and encourage commitment to an ongoing journey of self-reflection, healing, and empowerment.

Presenters:

- Andi Fejeran Sims, Ed.D., Associate Dean of Humanities and Social Sciences, Student Life, Mt. San Antonio College
- Aida Cuenza-Uvas, Ed.D., Director, Arise Program, Mt. San Antonio College

A10 – ROOM 208 SUCCESSION PLANNING FOR AAPI HIGHER ED LEADERS: A CASE STUDY OF UMASS BOSTON'S AANAPISI PROGRAM

Target Audience: Senior-Level Professionals

AAPIs are the fastest growing college student population, yet higher education student support staff remain predominantly White, with AAPIs significantly underrepresented within the field. Underrepresentation among AAPI student support staff is problematic for both AAPI students facing challenges in access and thriving in college, but also in how it reveals the lack of career pathways for AAPI professionals entering the higher education field. This panel presentation will share insights from current and past UMass Boston AANAPISI Project Directors. The session will delve into the need for and significance of nurturing a purposeful leadership pathway tailored for AAPI staff.

Presenters:

- Karen Chi, M.A., Associate Director of UMass Boston's AANAPISI Program, University of Massachusetts Boston
- Patricia Neilson, Ed.D, Founding AANAPISI Director- UMass Boston, APAHE Board Member, AANAPISI Initiatives
- Sara Boxell Hoang, PhD, Director, UMass Boston's AANAPISI Program

A11 – ROOM 210/211 "ISANG PALPAK" (ONE FAIL): REFRAMING NOTIONS OF FAILURE AMONGST FILIPINXS IN COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

Inspired by the clapping ritual "isang bagsak" (one down), this session proposes a variation on the concept -- "isang palpak" (one fail) -- to normalize failure through the lenses of ethnic identity, empowerment, and advocacy. By examining Filipino cultural values, including "hiya" (shame), panelists will reflect on their academic journey with a focus on reframing experiences deemed as failures. The diverse panel includes perspectives from an academic counselor and those who have navigated gap years, reverse transfer, probation, and changing majors. The discussion will address the complexities of Filipinx identity and ultimately work to destigmatize mental health and the community college pathway.

Presenters:

- Cherlin "Chey" Ongkeko, B.A., Philippine Studies Student, City College of San Francisco
- Anthony Amboy, MFA; Director, Asian American, Native Hawaiian, Pacific Islander Student Achievement Program; Foundation for California Community Colleges

A12 – CALIFORNIA ROOM
“MOVING FORWARD EQUITY, DIVERSITY, & ACTION: COLLABORATION BETWEEN THE ACADEMIC SENATE FOR CALIFORNIA
COMMUNITY COLLEGES (ASCCC) AND ASCCC
ASIAN PACIFIC ISLANDER (API) CAUCUS”

Target Audience: New Professionals

Interested in making a statewide impact as a faculty leader? Come to this session to meet faculty who are involved in the ASCCC API (Asian Pacific Islander) Caucus and its work and collaboration with ASCCC committees (in particular Equity Diversity Action Committee), and learn about how the ASCCC Resolutions Process is a democratic means for faculty to propose and submit resolutions for the ASCCC body to vote on and adopt as ASCCC positions and/or actions to take. In addition to faculty (new, mid-level, and senior), we also welcome students and other constituents to come learn about the Caucus, ASCCC, and their Resolutions process. ASCCC’s mission to center IDEAA (inclusion, diversity, equity, anti-racism, and accessibility) means that it is committed to welcoming and building a pipeline of CCC faculty statewide who proportionately represent the diversity of California’s population and students. Engaging students who are interested in being part of that pipeline, as well as new, mid-level, and senior-level professionals who also support that goal is an aim of this workshop.

Presenters:

- Karen Chow, Ph.D., Faculty, De Anza College & Chair, ASCCC Equity Diversity Action Committee, De Anza College & Academic Senate for California Community Colleges
- Pablo Martin, ASCCC API Caucus Chair & Academic Senate President, San Diego Miramar College
- Michael Takeda, Acting Academic Senate President, Fresno City College & ASCCC API Caucus Founding Chair
- Bethany Tasaka, Interim Dean of Mathematic, Business, and Computer Technology division
- San Bernardino Valley College, & ASCCC API Caucus Chair 2022-23

EMPOWERING THE FUTURE: ASIAN AMERICAN ADVOCACY FOR HIGH-QUALITY
ETHNIC STUDIES IN LOCAL HIGH SCHOOLS

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

In this workshop, we will explore the pivotal role Asian American college students and young professionals can play in shaping the educational landscape of their local high schools through advocacy for high-quality ethnic studies programs. With a focus on the implementation of ethnic studies, participants will gain insights into three key principles to ensure high-quality Ethnic Studies: Community-based, student-centered, and social justice-oriented. Through interactive discussions, case studies, and collaborative activities, attendees will develop the skills and knowledge needed to become influential advocates for equitable education for Asian American youth.

INTEGRATING ART-BASED THERAPY
AS PART OF MENTAL HEALTH HOLISTIC PROGRAMMING TO PROMOTE STUDENTS’
WELL-BEING AND SENSE OF BELONGING

Target Audience: Target Audience: Senior-Level Professionals

In September 2022, Middlesex Community College secured a renewed $1.7 million, five-year grant from the Department of Education for the Asian American, Native American, Pacific Islander-Serving Institution (AANAPISI) program. The grant aims to expand academic, social, and emotional support, with an emphasis on eliminating barriers and increasing access for Asian American students. With the rise of racially motivated attacks on AANHPI communities during the pandemic, there has been a heightened level of anxiety and racial trauma. This panel presentation will showcase the effectiveness of art-based therapy in promoting the overall well-being, and a sense of belonging for Asian American students.

Presenters:

- Virak Uy, M.Ed, Director of Program for Asian American Student Advancement & Interim Director of the Center for Truth, Racial Healing & Transformation, Middlesex Community College
- Noreen McGinness Olson, M.A, Assistant Dean of Student Success Program, Middlesex Community College
- Jennifer Nguyen, M.A, Retention & Wellness Specialist, Middlesex Community College

SPAM LITE: STUDENT PROFESSIONALS AND MENTORSHIP: LOVE INSPIRED THROUGH EMPOWERMENT

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

Student employment opportunities offer a great sense of purpose, community, and professional development for AANHPI undergraduate students. This workshop provides insight into how SD Mesa AANHPI students seized student employment opportunities that have helped them develop professionally while continuing to support their AANHPI community. Learn more about how they navigate their roles as students and workers, the challenges and benefits, and how these opportunities came about through faculty/staff mentorship. This workshop is an invitation to those interested in seeking similar opportunities on your campus.

Presenters:

- Patricia (Trish) Guevarra, M.S., Kapwa Counselor/Coordinator, San Diego Mesa College
- Leilani Maanao, Promise Project Assistant, Kapwa Alumni, San Diego Mesa College
- Derek Pham, Undergraduate, Peer Navigator, San Diego Mesa College

LINEAGE OF HEARTWORK: EMPOWERING LEADERSHIP THROUGH RADICAL HOPE AT THE UC DAVIS STRATEGIC ASIAN AND PACIFIC ISLANDER RETENTION INITIATIVE

Target Audience: Senior-Level Professionals

The UC Davis Strategic Asian and Pacific Islander Retention Initiative (SAandPIRI) will host a moderated student panel with current scholars and alumni. Through their narratives, attendees will hear about the critical connections and advocacy of the scholars since SAandPIRI's inception. Through the heartwork contributions of the students and their courage to disrupt, the panelists will discuss their legacy for change towards institutionalizing counter-spaces for fellow AandPI scholars to connect, build community, and be academically successful at an R-1 AANAPISI.

Presenters:

- Chris Pangelina, M.A., Associate Director of the Strategic Asian and Pacific Islander Retention Initiative and Office of Asian and Pacific Islander Academic Student Success, University of California at Davis
- Angel Truong, Office Coordinator for the Strategic Asian and Pacific Islander Retention Initiative and Office of Asian and Pacific Islander Academic Student Success, University of California, Davis

PRESERVING OUR NARRATIVE: HEALING THROUGH STORYTELLING WITHIN THE VIETNAMESE COMMUNITY

Target Audience: New Professionals

This gathering provides an opportunity for everyone to explore the healing power of storytelling within the rich tapestry of Vietnamese narratives. Engage in guided discussions and interactive activities that not only foster connections but also contribute to a critical examination of refugee experiences. By celebrating the resilience and diversity within the Vietnamese community, this workshop aims to create a space for individual and collective healing. Join us on a journey of empowerment, as we highlight the strength found in the unique stories that weave the fabric of our shared human experience.

Presenters:

IMMERSED IN THE FIRST: DISCUSSIONS WITH AN ATE, MANANG, CHI, AND EUY IN HIGHER EDUCATION

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

With recent articles, the topic of eldest daughters has captured the culture's attention. While we share some similarities, first daughters are different. First daughters are the first in their families to speak English fluently, which means there are cultural, societal, and linguistic burdens that come with this title. They're the first to complete their FAFSA. The first to attend college. The first to work in an office. This workshop is comprised of four first daughters who will share and invite others to talk about how their first-daughterness has shaped not only their worldview, but their outlook on higher education.

Presenters:

- Maggie Thach Morshed, M.F.A. in Creative Nonfiction, Humanities Lead, UC San Diego OASIS
- Emmeline Domingo, M.A, OASIS ARC (Academic Resource Communities) Supervisor, UC San Diego

EMBRACING RADICAL HOPE FOR ASIAN AMERICAN & NATIVE AMERICAN PACIFIC ISLANDER (AANAPI) CRIMINOLOGY SCHOLARS

Target Audience: Senior-Level Professionals

The AANAPISI Initiative at California State University, Fresno, seeks to empower, encourage, and increase student success of underrepresented AANAPI Criminology students. The presentation will guide participants through two aspects within the program: Work-Based Learning Experience and Student Success. In addition, our Asian American Pacific Islanders in Criminology (AAPIC) Peer Mentors will share their experiences and the impacts the program has made on their journey through a panel discussion. Join us in this session as we share about our program, celebrate successes, and invite participants to embrace radical hope in supporting AANAPI Criminology students.

APPROACHING MENTAL HEALTH WITH CARE, COURAGE, AND ACTION: COLLABORATIVE PARTNERSHIPS TO REACH ANHPI STUDENTS

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

Student Health and Counseling at Cal State East Bay utilizes culturally aligned practices, strategically embeds counselors within departments to increase access, and evaluates the effectiveness of its services. Outcomes of this model have included increased usage of counseling services by ANHPI students, a 35% reduction in distress, and a 96% satisfaction rate. This workshop will facilitate a community space to reflect upon the challenges and needs of implementing culturally relevant mental health services on college campuses. Our radical hope is to ensure students thrive through collective, courageous healing so that communities are uplifted generationally.

Presenters:

- Kevin Gin, Ph.D., Interim Associate Director, Cal State East Bay

WTF, SOCIAL JUSTICE?! C’MON NOW...WALK IT LIKE YOU TALK IT

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

“WTF, Social Justice?!” will explore attendees’ understanding of social justice, what social justice looks like in 2024 in and around our Asian American Pacific Islander and Desi (APIIDA) communities, and more importantly, how we as students, faculty, staff, trustees, and community partners can turn understanding into action for the empowerment of our communities worldwide. This guided discussion will be facilitated by two longtime community organizers and educators, Kirin Macapugay, an indigenous person, and Benjamin Nakamura, a descendant of Japanese-Americans interned during WWII, who have taught in juvenile court schools, primary schools, community colleges, universities, and in our greater communities.

Presenters:

- Kirin Macapugay, MSW, DSW completion in 2024, Vice-Chair, Commissioner, Professor, CA Commission on APIA Affairs, San Diego City College
- Benjamin Nakamura, MS, Professor, San Diego City College; Regional Director of Culturally Responsive Teaching & Equity, Aspire Public Schools

B11 – ROOM 210/211 ACHIEVING AANAPISI STATUS THROUGH OPERATIONAL TEAMS

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

CU Denver has set the goal of becoming the first “equity-serving institution.” In 2021, it greenlit an AANAPISI Operational Team, charged with ascertaining the needs of AAPI students and developing pilot programs to remove barriers to their success. The data and design of these pilot programs laid the groundwork for an AANAPISI grant proposal that CU Denver submitted in 2022 to the Department of Education. This panel will discuss the operational team model and their resultant pilot programs at CU Denver to provide a model for colleagues at other universities who seek to gain MSI statuses for their institutions.

Presenters:

- Faye Caronan, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Ethnic Studies/Associate Dean of Faculty and Staff Affairs in College of Liberal Arts & Sciences, University of Colorado Denver
- Patricia “Yumi” Park, University of Colorado Denver
- Yang Wang, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of Art History, University of Colorado Denver

B12 – CALIFORNIA ROOM HARVESTING RADICAL HOPE FROM AANHPI LITERATURE: WELCOME TO THE APASS READING CLUB!

Target Audience: New Professionals

Faculty and students from Los Angeles Harbor College’s APASS (Asian Pacific American Student Success) program will discuss our experiences devising, leading, and participating in the APASS Reading Club – a new initiative that brings the study of AANHPI literature into a student success program. We will briefly review data that demonstrates how studying AANHPI literature can benefit AANHPI student success, and we will describe how we are incorporating brief AANHPI literature workshops into our APASS programming. The APASS Reading Club is a series of monthly explorations of AANHPI short stories that highlight distinctive features and recurring themes of AANHPI literature.

Presenters:

FROM SILOS TO SYNERGY: COALITION FORMATION OF AANAPISI AND HSI

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

Cosumnes River College (CRC), as an MSI (Minority Serving Institution), emphasizes celebrating cultural diversity and encouraging students to embrace their heritage while appreciating and learning other cultures. Designated as AANAPISI and HSI, CRC has leveraged this to strengthen our institutional capacity supporting targeted racial and ethnic communities to benefit all enrolled students. We will share how CRC challenges the status quo of working in silos by embracing collaborative work to best serve underrepresented, underserved, and overlooked intersectionalities of students. Participants will gain invaluable insights and practical tools to effectively support and empower underrepresented students through collaborative engagement with institutional programs.

Presenters:

- Raul Pasamonte, M.A., Director, AANAPISI, Cosumnes River College
- Jessica Mow, M.S. (IP), AANAPISI Success Coach, Cosumnes River College

THE PUSH AND PULL OF LEADERSHIP: INSIGHTS INTO SUPPORTING MECHANISMS, ORGANIZATIONAL BARRIERS, AND CHARACTERISTICS OF ASIAN AMERICAN VICE PRESIDENTS AND DIRECTORS LEADING IN MULTIPLE SECTORS

Target Audience: Senior-Level Professionals

During this panel, the speakers will present the findings of a LEAP research study conducted to generate knowledge about the career experiences of VP and Director level professionals of Asian descent. Insights into the supporting mechanisms, organizational barriers, and characteristics of VPs and Directors leading in multiple sectors (corporate, nonprofit, higher education, and government) will be shared. Takeaways include knowledge of internal and external factors that are keys to success and support leadership trajectories, recommendations to organizations on systems and policies required to develop Asian leaders, and recommendations to individuals who aspire to be in leadership positions.

Presenters:

- Yon Na, Principal Investigator, Leadership Education for Asian Pacifics (LEAP)
- Patricia "Denise" Lopez, Ph.D., Professor of Organizational Psychology, Alliant International University

GET EQUITABLE PAY TO DO WHAT YOU LOVE: DEVELOP THE COURAGE TO ASK AND TAKE ACTION ON BEHALF OF ALL AANHPI

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

In this workshop, participants will learn why certain marginalized groups (Asians, first-generation students, etc.) have a history of not negotiating their salary. Engage in a lively and frank discussion about the compensation nuances at various higher education systems (CCC, CSU, UC, etc.). Practice researched techniques to prepare effectively for salary negotiation talks. And gain the confidence to advocate for yourself and normalize the conversation for all AANHPIs. The facilitator is a mid-career professional and career counseling master's student who will share salary negotiation best practices gathered for their graduation research project.

CULTIVATING PACIFIC ISLANDER LEADERS OF TOMORROW, TODAY!

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

Today's panel features NHPI leaders who have completed the Pacific Islander Leaders of Tomorrow (PILOT) program hosted by Empowering Pacific Islander Communities (EPIC). PILOT is one of only a few programs in existence dedicated solely to the development of NHPI leaders through culturally responsive practices. Over 10 years, EPIC has cultivated more than 240 NHPI leaders from more than 8 states across the US and representing more than 6 Pacific Island communities. Come hear from PILOT Alumni, talk about their journeys through the program, discuss pathways to leadership, and commitment to advocacy on behalf of NHPI Communities.

“DO I BELONG HERE?”: SERVING MULTIRACIAL STUDENTS IN AFFINITY-BASED CENTERS AND SPACES

Target Audience: New Professionals

Roxane Maiko Byrne, Ph.D., is a Multiracial Asian scholar-practitioner and Director of Student Equity and Engagement at Santa Barbara City College. In this session, she will explore how multiracial students navigate their identity and sense of belonging in racial/cultural affinity centers and spaces on college campuses. The concepts of mono and multi-racial identities, monoracism, multiracial microaggressions, multiracial identity, affinity spaces, and student belonging will be covered. Participants will discuss common challenges and issues related to multiracial student experiences on campus and will leave with concrete ideas about how to better serve these students within monoracial and multiracial affinity spaces.

Presenters:

CSU AANHPI COLLECTIVE: AN INITIATIVE FOR CHANGE

Target Audience: Senior-Level Professionals

The CSU is the nation's largest university system. Over 16% of CSU students identify as APIDA, and 14 campuses are eligible for AANAPISIs. Yet, at campus- and system-wide levels, there's a lack of institutionalized support dedicated to APIDA populations. A group of CSU faculty and staff have been convening since 2020 to advocate for more. As such, the Chancellor's Office has provided $500K and is supporting a centralized AANHPI office. Learn about the challenges and growth opportunities that can be achieved with collective synergy. Attendees can also gain and share updates about CSU-wide efforts.

Presenters:

- Virginia Loh-Hagan, Ed.D., Director, APIDA Center, San Diego State University
- Timothy P. Fong, Professor of Ethnic Studies, Project Director and Principal Investigator, Full Circle Project, California State University, Sacramento
- Simon Kim, Professor of Educational Psychology, Associate Vice President for Research and

C7 – JUNIOR BALLROOM 2 RADICAL HOPE IN ACTION: UNLEASHING THE POWER OF ALLYSHIP WITHIN US

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

Cultivating radical hope is an individual endeavor AND a collective responsibility. This interactive session will explore the transformative power of radical hope within the AANHPI community. We will define radical allyship within and across diverse groups and introduce effective actions allies can take to create brave spaces where radical hope can thrive. Hope is not merely a feeling but a powerful force that, when coupled with deliberate acts of love, courage, and action, has the potential to reshape the landscape of higher education for the better. Together, let's embark on a journey to impact AANHPI leadership at all levels.

C8 – JUNIOR BALLROOM 3-4 PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS & PANEL DISCUSSION FROM THE CALIFORNIA COMMUNITY COLLEGES AANHPI STUDENT ACHIEVEMENT PROGRAM

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

The Asian American, Native Hawaiian, and Pacific Islander (AANHPI) Student Achievement Program Central Office team is providing program updates and reflections about the program at the college level through a presentation and panel discussion. The college-led panel will reflect on their college's current support services for AANHPI students, discuss the AANHPI Student Achievement Program's impact within the last year, and share insights for the future. This presentation allows attendees to understand the program's foundational development since April 2023, ask questions, and have a space to connect with college practitioners and discover collaboration points.

Presenters:

- Anthony Amboy, MFA, Director, CCC AANHPI Student Achievement Program, Foundation for California Community Colleges

C9 – ROOM 208 BUILDING BRIDGES: CRAFTING LEADERSHIP BEYOND MENTORSHIP

Target Audience: New Professionals

This session will highlight the transformative experiences of the ASPIRE Peer Mentorship Program, an AANAPISI grant initiative at the University of Minnesota-Twin Cities. Presenters will share practices, lessons learned, and experiences of leading a mentorship program with students that fosters leadership development that has shaped AAPI student leadership on campus. The session will draw upon the shared knowledge of how students apply what they learned in ASPIRE to their own leadership roles and experiences.

Presenters:

- Tev Lee, M.S., Associate Director for APARC, University of Minnesota Twin Cities
- Samyu Shankar, Khai Hoang

C10 – ROOM 210/211 WHAT ARE YOU? CREATING DIALOGUE FOR PATCHWORK IDENTITIES AND MIXED-RACE COMMUNITY BUILDING

Target Audience: New Professionals

Join us for a fishbowl-style facilitated conversation about the mixed-race experience. Presenters will begin by sharing their own experiences and challenges as both students and staffers of mixed-race backgrounds. This will be followed by a period where participants share their own experiences of personal identity formation and instances where higher education has (or has not) provided spaces to foster mixed-race communities. The final portion of the workshop will allow all participants to brainstorm and discuss proposed solutions to the issue of invisibilized multiracial students, and make suggestions as to how to build institutional infrastructure for a growing mixed-race student population.

Presenters:

- Nina Moskowitz, M.A., Learning Specialist, University of California, Berkeley
- Tina Oshima Helmstret, Program Manager, MiraCosta College
- Sinclair Tirona, M.A., Program Manager, Associate Faculty: Communication Studies, MiraCosta College

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

This panel is dedicated to uplifting the experiences of student leaders of Filipinx student organizations and learning communities across California. Throughout the 116 California Community Colleges, Filipinx students continuously represent the highest number of Asians within the system. These student leaders of Skyline College's Kababayan, Southwestern College's Bayan Scholars, Napa Valley College's Kasaysayan, and College of San Mateo's Katipunan Learning Communities will speak to their critical work sustaining strong presence of Filipinx community, mobilizing Filipinx students, and how it has been central to their growth in community college.

Presenters:

- Doris Garcia, M.S., Coordinator, Katipunan Learning Community, Katipunan Learning Community, College of San Mateo and Filipinx Community College Collaborative
- Chretienne Isabelle Gomez, Katipunan Learning Community, College of San Mateo
- Mark Jefferson Gobasco, Bayan Scholars Learning Community, Southwestern College
- Nico (Nicole) Agraviador, Kasaysayan Learning Community, Napa Valley College

- David Pumyam, Kababayan Learning Community, Skyline College

FRAMING CHANGE: EMPOWERING FILIPINO/A/X COMMUNITIES THROUGH PHOTOVOICE

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

This session merges theoretical knowledge and practical tools, inspiring change in academic and Filipino/a/x community spaces using a unique arts-based research methodology. Engage in a concise primer and explore a captivating mini photovoice exhibition showcasing diverse narratives. Participants will gain skills to integrate arts-based research through photovoice into curricula, foster dialogue, and address barriers faced by Filipino/a/x individuals. Photovoice, as documentary photography and owning one's narrative, becomes a personal tool for creative reflection, healing, and envisioning a limitless future. Insights await through 'Photovoice 101,' collaborative research teams, and philosophical discussions and will conclude with participants envisioning transformative actions. Don't miss this opportunity!

Presenters:

- Rangel Velez Zarate, Ed.D., Assistant Professor of English, San Bernardino Valley College

D2 – GRAND BALLROOM AB
"TO ENJOY BLESSINGS AND ENDURE MISFORTUNE TOGETHER." THE BENEFITS OF COALITION BUILDING AND ALLYSHIP TO SUSTAIN AND ENHANCE THE AANHPI VOICE.

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

In this presentation, we discuss the formation of our Asian Pacific Islander Association (APIA) organization and how it was rooted in ally and mentorship from other local affinity groups. The presenters will share insights on how our coalition-building approach empowered APIA to elevate AANHPI concerns locally and develop actionable solutions collaboratively. Participants will draw upon the experience of the presenters and develop their own strategies to advance their own local guiding coalitions. This presentation underscores the significance of coalition formation, not only within the AANHPI community, but also through strategic alliances beyond showcasing how shared interests and collective goals are pivotal to organizational growth and sustainability. As we progress, the impact of coalition forming, shaped by the principles of solidarity and shared commitment, will continue to shape the trajectory of APIA.

Presenters:

- Jimmy Grabow, M.S., Faculty Co-Chair of Counseling, Crafton Hills College
- Chloe De Los Reyes, MA English, English Faculty, Crafton Hills College

D3 – GRAND BALLROOM C THE POWER OF NETWORKING: AUTHENTICALLY BUILDING COMMUNITY AND RELATIONSHIPS

Target Audience: New Professionals

Networking is an often used and misused word. At its worst, it conjures images of someone trying to shake hands and exchange business cards with as many people as possible. At its best, it's a meaningful introduction that develops into a mutually beneficial relationship. The purpose of this workshop is to expand our definition of networking and develop an understanding of how our Asian and Pacific Islander cultural values impact our attitudes and effectiveness toward networking. You will define goals and strategies that can be lifted through the power of networking.

Presenters:

- Chingcha Vang, M.A., Program Manager, Leadership Education for Asian Pacifics

D4 – GRAND BALLROOM F TAKING ACTION WITH DATA AND RESEARCH ON YOUR SIDE

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

Advancing initiatives and creating new realities require resources and institutional support. Yes, we have to work hard to make the case and get traction for our ideas. The surest pathway to success is having data, evidence, and a research plan to help us stand out and make it hard for peers, leaders, and funding agencies to refuse. In this workshop, let's explore how to be savvy with data/research, or more precisely, how to collaborate with the data/research people, how to design a program or intervention with evaluation in mind, and how to press forward with radical action.

Presenters:

- Vinh Nguyen, Ph.D., Interim Director of Dual Enrollment, Irvine Valley College
- Kevin Hsu, M.A., Research and Planning Analyst, Irvine Valley College
- Marianne Wolfe, M.S., AANAPISI Director/General Counselor, Irvine Valley College

D5 – GRAND BALLROOM GH WHAT I LEARNED IN THERAPY: SHAPING ASIAN AMERICAN SAFE SPACES FOR STUDENTS AND STAFF

Target Audience: New Professionals

As the mental health crisis continues to loom over college campuses, many Asian American students are left without access to healthcare services that appropriately address their unique needs. This presentation addresses how motivational interviewing can aid professional staff by empowering and providing agency for students to make healthy changes. These changes create access for students to improve the overall quality of life during their college careers. New/mid-level professionals can gain skills to better facilitate challenging conversations with students, while also creating safe spaces for vulnerability and encouraging student openness on mental health conversations.

Presenters:

- Satyak Som, Program Coordinator, University of Massachusetts Lowell

D6 – JUNIOR BALLROOM I CO-CONSPIRING RADICAL CHANGE THROUGH STUDENT GOVERNMENT COALITIONS & ACTIVISM

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

Student Government possess the power of shared governance and the amplified voices to advocate courageously for campus change. They strive to unite and empower students to embrace and foster campus environments that value and uphold diversity, equity, inclusion, social justice, anti-racism, and accessibility. Join this session to learn more about ways in which one California Community College Associated Students Government has strategized and activated voices from students, academic senates, board members, and state level leaders to co-conspire and implement social justice initiatives to support student success.

Presenters:

- Andi Fejeran Sims, Ed.D., Associate Dean of Humanities and Social Sciences, Student Life, Mt. San Antonio College

- Dani Silva, Associated Students (A.S.) President, Mt. San Antonio College

TAKING CARE OF OUR OWN: CULTURALLY NURTURING COUNSELING + WORK-BASED LEARNING PRACTICES

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

Counseling and Work-based Learning can be a powerful combination to support our AANHPI students in their academic and career journeys. During this session, we will discuss the factors affecting them, such as model minority myth, mental health challenges, and the rise in anti-AAPI hate. We will share our practices to foster a sense of belonging and community. Examples include culturally responsive counseling, capstone projects, Career While Asian panels, and healing circles. Come hear from our Kapwa students and their capstone teach-in projects such as APIA Voices.

Presenters:

- Katlin Choi, M.A., Associate Professor/Work Based Learning Coordinator, San Diego Mesa College
- Mia Handojo, Kapwa alumni, San Diego Mesa College
- Faith San Jose, Kapwa alumni, San Diego Mesa College

MAKING WAVES: THE RISE OF ASIAN AMERICA

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

This panel will preview clips of the upcoming feature documentary Making Waves: The Rise of Asian America, which explores the vital role of ethnic studies in redefining the narrative and promoting service to communities across the country. Making Waves documents the stories of Asian American activism and efforts to lift ethnic studies as a strategy to address present and future anti-Asian hate. The panelist will discuss contemporary movements to expand Asian American studies content in communities around the country as well as key challenges, including the conflation with critical race theory, book bans, and the ivory tower dynamic.

UNDERSTANDING SOUTHEAST ASIAN STUDENTS' SENSE OF BELONGING

Target Audience: New Professionals

Previous research has linked an increased sense of belonging to higher student success metrics like retention and academic achievement. While there are studies of the aggregate level of the Asian American sense of belonging, Southeast Asian American (SEAA) students are often overlooked in the general discourse. In Spring 2023, focus groups were conducted to learn the impact of SEAA faculty and staff on the sense of belonging of 27 Southeast Asian American students. This panel aims to share the results of this study, centering our student voices. The findings highlight specific factors that influence sense of belonging in SEAA students.

WE ARE MORE THAN CASH COWS:
HUMANIZING INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

Higher education institutions in the United States have cultivated an influx of international students, many arriving from Asian countries. This can be attributed to institutions strategically targeting the revenue from tuition fees that international students must pay. Sadly, this has contributed to the dehumanization of international students as simply "cash cows." In response, a team of graduate students took action toward a reimagined environment that views, values, and serves international students through a humanizing lens. Please join us in a collaborative discussion of practicing radical hope in the present through the restoration of humanity with international students and ourselves.

Presenters:

BOBA THERAPY: FINDING RADICAL HOPE AND COMMUNAL CARE TO HEAL FROM INTERGENERATIONAL TRAUMAS FOR OURSELVES, COMMUNITY, AND AANHPI STUDENTS AT THE COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

Collectively, we have found healing through many visits to the local boba shop across the street from our community college. In these visits, we have discovered affirmation, solidarity, and healing through communal care, radical love, and courage to continue to lead together in support of our AANHPI community. This panel is an invitation to join our conversation, share stories of success, and be in community with one another.

THE POWER IN OUR SEA OF ISLANDS: PACIFIC ISLANDER EDUCATORS IN ETHNIC STUDIES

Target Audience: New Professionals

Thirty years ago, Epeli Hau'ofa wrote "Our Sea of Islands," reminding Pacific Islanders that we are not defined by the smallness of our islands, but the greatness of our ocean. His words have inspired many to challenge the inferior views of the Pacific and remain hopeful in our work for collective liberation. In this panel, three Pacific Islander educators will share their experiences teaching across our sea and in the diaspora – specifically in Ethnic Studies at the high school, community college, and university levels in California.

Presenters:

- Levalasi Loi-On, M.A., AANAPISI Coordinator / Adjunct Faculty, SF State
- Andrew Va'i, M.A., Adjunct Professor, Chabot College
- Jeremiah Sataraka, Ph.D., Assistant Professor, CSU Bakersfield

KOKUA FROM THE MAINLAND: SENDING PRAYERS AND ACTION TO THOSE IMPACTED BY THE MAUI WILDFIRES

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

The Maui Wildfires was the country's deadliest wildfire in the past 100 years destroying over 2,000 buildings and taking nearly 100 lives. In response, the San Diego Mesa AANAPISI Team organized a listening circle for our AAPI community and allies to grieve, support, and be in dialogue about the impacts of the event. Participants will learn how San Diego Mesa College worked with local Hawaiians to share the historical context of the Hawaiian people along with traditional grieving practices to help students navigate their feelings and their mental health in community and solidarity.

Presenters:

- Leland Simpliciano, AANAPISI Director, San Diego Mesa College
- Ella deCastro Baron, MFA, Kapwa Instructor, San Diego Mesa College
- Desiree Werner, Student, San Diego Mesa College

REVOLUTIONARY LOVE AND RADICAL HOPE: TRANSFORMATIVE PRACTICES FOR OUR FAMILIES, CLASSROOMS, AND COMMUNITIES

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

Participants will be invited to reflect and dialogue with one another to identify practices of Revolutionary Love (Kaur, 2020) and radical hope that support AANAPHIs in three sets of relationships: our families, classrooms, and communities. Both Revolutionary Love and radical hope are more than a feeling; they are a rigorous set of practices that require us to reckon with and transform injustice. In each of these relationships, we will focus on generating strategies for courageous hope and action, while nurturing our individual and collective healing, well-being, and joy.

Presenters:

A MOMENT TO HEAL IN SUPPORT OF STUDENTS, THEIR MENTAL HEALTH AND SUCCESS

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

We argue that poetry is underutilized, yet it is both an innovative and a long-established practice with positive benefits for addressing individual and community-level pain (Xiang 2020, Lepore and Smyth 2002; Eum and Yim 2015). Workshop topics covered will include experiences with anti-Asian bullying on college campuses, discussion regarding school-level resources and training devoted to anti-Asian animus, and exercises in poetry writing and reading as ways by which to achieve learning outcomes of knowing ways to use poetry for expression, self-reflection and processing the effects of anti-Asian discrimination as individuals and as a community.

“SERVINGNESS” FOR NATIVE HAWAIIAN AND PACIFIC ISLANDER STUDENTS: LEADERSHIP STRATEGIES FOR ADVOCACY, FUNDING, AND PRACTICE IN HIGHER EDUCATION

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

In Fall 2022, CSU San Marcos (CSUSM) launched its APIDA Success Initiative, providing dedicated spaces and services for APIDA students, faculty, staff, and community members, and hiring the inaugural APIDA Student Success Coordinator in 2023. Yet these strides to support APIDA students started with radical courage to love first those least served: NHPI students. The workshop offers leadership actions developed through the CSU Student Success Network to reimagine sustainable “servingsness” strategies that support NHPI students – and all students – on broad-access public campuses, with vital collaborations across community colleges, and among grassroots and national non-profit organizations, for significant community engagement.

Presenters:

- Theresa C. Suarez, Ph.D., Associate Professor/ Project Director/ Primary Investigator, Cal State University San Marcos
- Mae Talicuran, M.A., Assistant Director of Special Projects, Office of Student Affairs; President, CSUSM APIDA Faculty/Staff Association
- Cheryl Landin, M.A., Co-Chair APIDA Student Success Initiative; Assistant Director of Strategic Initiatives, CSUSM Office of Inclusive Excellence; Interim Director CSUSM Cross Cultural Center
- Demeturie Toso-Lafaele Gogue, Ph.D. Candidate, CSU Chancellor’s Doctoral Incentive Program (CDIP), CSUSM Fellow (’23-’24), UCLA School of Education & Information Studies

DON’T COMPETE, COLLABORATE

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

Most of us are higher education professionals who help and support students throughout their personal, academic/educational, and life journeys. Yet, we’ve all been in situations where we are pitted against other programs, initiatives, projects, activities, and even each other. Why? Resources are limited. Not everyone can have some of the limited available funds. What can you do? What should you do? Come to this session ready to chat. Learn from practitioners with experience building and uplifting programs through allyship and shared resources. Let’s gather in community to cultivate radical hope, courage and take action back at our schools.

DELTA COLLEGE IS IN THE HEART

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

Dr. Dawn Bohulano Mabalon was a respected historian, author, filmmaker, poet, chef, baker, community leader, and activist who was grounded in love for the Filipina/o American community in San Joaquin county. Five years after writing Little Manila is in the Heart, Dr. Mabalon suddenly passed away in 2018. In her legacy, Debra Louie, Dr. Cirian Villavicencio, and Janice Takahashi decided it was time for San Joaquin Delta College to honor leaders who represented and looked like the student body. On November 2nd, 2023, 3 years after many trials and tribulations, the North Forum was renamed the Dawn Mabalon Forum.

F3 – GRAND BALLROOM C FINDING THE SWEET SPOT WITH COMMUNITY SUPPORT GROUPS - A COLLABORATIVE APPROACH TO INCREASING MENTAL HEALTH ACCESS FOR AANHPI STUDENTS

Target Audience: New Professionals

Laney College's Mental Health and the Asian Pacific Islander Student Success programs designed and implemented a mental health support group in response to two factors: the rise in anti-Asian violence 2 years ago and the recent CDC findings on the maddening disparity in utilization of mental health services by Asians in the US. We will share our cautiously optimistic findings 1.5 years into implementation, as well as perspectives from student participants and facilitators.

Presenters:

- Susan Yee, M.A., Mental Health Specialist, Laney College
- Sharon Quach, MA in Counseling, Academic Counseling Laney College
- Phoumy Sayavong, Ph.D., Sr. Researcher Berkeley City College
- David Lee, Ed.D., Director of APASS at Laney College

F4 – GRAND BALLROOM F RE-IMAGINING TRANSFORMATIVE LEADERSHIP IN HIGHER ED: LESSONS OF SOLIDARITY FROM SOCIAL MOVEMENTS

Target Audience: New Professionals

From the Third World Liberation Front to the movement for a free Palestine, there are powerful lessons of collective courage and action to be learned from social movements. This workshop will review key movements and their history of coalition building and collective action. Participants will be reminded of Asian American activism throughout history, reflect on the impacts of colonization on our AANHPI identities, and our responsibility to courageously challenge our complacencies as we strengthen meaningful cross-cultural solidarity work. This workshop will conclude with reflections towards transformative leadership and building collective care as a means of preservation for our communities.

Presenters:

- Vivian Lin, M.S., Academic Coordinator/ELL Success Coach, Bunker Hill Community College

F5 – GRAND BALLROOM GH FROM AANAPISI PROGRAM TO AANAPISI INSTITUTION

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

This workshop will explore how Sacramento State's AANAPISI program, the Full Circle Project, has formed coalitions within the Asian Pacific Islander Desi American Faculty & Staff Association and across other groups to develop an AANAPISI Identity and expand capacity to serve AANAPISI students. Attendees will be able to reflect on what coalition building looks like on their own campus, identify strategies to build strong coalitions across campus, and construct a plan of action for how to build allyship and sustain support for AANHPI staff, faculty, and students in an AANAPISI Institution.

Presenters:

- Marietess Masulit, M.A., Project Manager, Title IX, Office for Equal Opportunity, Sacramento State University
- Timothy Fong, Ph.D., Professor Ethnic Studies & Director Full Circle Project, Sacramento State University

- Racquel Reber, Educational Opportunity Program Senior Lead Summer Transitions, Sacramento State University

F6 – JUNIOR BALLROOM 1 BEYOND THE BUBBLE BATH: A CRITICAL APPROACH TO SELF-CARE

Target Audience: New Professionals

In this session, we will think critically about the intersections of self-care, colonialism, and higher education through interactive dialogue, stories, and research. When faced with burned-out staff, institutions increase messaging about self-care as a remedy. But the current self-care paradigm is rooted in colonialism; self-care today centers consumerism and whiteness, which is not helpful for communities of color. Together, we will reimagine our self-care praxis and move towards a definition that honors our needs as AANHPI higher education practitioners, and embraces radical self-love. By decolonizing our self-care, we can begin to reclaim power in caring for ourselves and our communities.

Presenters:

- Sarah Rost, M.A., Learning Specialist and Doctoral Student, University of Massachusetts Amherst

F7 – JUNIOR BALLROOM 2

EMBODYING RACIAL HOPE & LOVE THROUGH CURA PERSONALIS: HOW TO INCREASE ACCESS, EQUITY & SUCCESS FOR AANHPI STUDENTS THROUGH INDIVIDUALIZED HOLISTIC STUDENT SUPPORT

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

What is “cura personalis” and how does this Jesuit value align with the mission to increase access, equity, and student success? Systemic barriers like the model minority myth and lack of disaggregated data can often lead our AANHPI students to feeling unseen, unheard, and unsupported despite institutional efforts to provide holistic student success. Cura personalis (“care for the whole person”) provides students with individualized transformative support to reach their full potential. Come learn about cura personalis, how it connects to radical hope and leading with love, and how to incorporate it into your individual and institutional practices!

WITH HELLA ALOFA/'OFA: HOW NESIANS UNITE, A PASIFIKA STUDENT-LED CLUB, SPARKED A LEARNING COMMUNITY
Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

Join us in learning how a student-led club, Nesians Unite (NU), sparked the building of a Learning Community at Chabot College. The intent of creating NU is to be inclusive of our Melanesian, Micronesian and Polynesian communities. As a student-led club, NU aimed to increase retention and transfer rates of Native Hawaiian Pacific Islander students, with guidance from other Pasifika Program Directors, Dr. Finau Tovo from MANA at College of San Mateo, and Dr. Tavita Palaita from VĀSĀ at City College of San Francisco. With Chabot College being a grantee of AANAPISI, NU is now becoming a Learning Community.

EXPERIENCING THE EDD DOCTORATE AS A NATIVE: A PANEL DISCUSSION ABOUT CHALLENGING ACADEMIC NORMS OF RESEARCH PRACTICE.

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

In an era where Critical Race Theory, LGBTQ+ , and other protests against conservative thought have been opposed and silenced, this panel reflects on the significance of Indigenous theories, community-guided inquiries, and Native research methodologies that at times, radically contest standard research practice and thought. The session will also lovingly hold space for questions from the audience about how to support the growth of Native doctorate candidates to become social justice leaders within and for their communities.

Presenters:

- Walter Kahumoku III, Ph.D., Director, EdD, College of Education, UH Mānoa, University of Hawaii, Mānoa

- Kēhau Kahanu, MEd, Academic Support, UH Mānoa/EdD program

MEETING TO CONTINUE BUILDING AND ENHANCING APIDA COMMUNITY AT YOUR INSTITUTION

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

Much of our efforts are spent providing students with a great experience, and rightfully so. However, do we put enough effort into ensuring a great experience, a voice and presence, and advocacy for ourselves as employees, especially, our APIDA professionals. Many of us have seen and/or felt the need for further identity development and advocacy for ourselves and our colleagues. Join us for a meeting on how APIDA employee associations can help our campus communities thrive. We will be focusing on ideas to enhance social aspects, community building, advocacy, and professional development for APIDA communities at your institutions.

Presenters:

- Takeo Kubo, M.A., Director, Financial Aid & Scholarship Programs, San Jose City College
- Blake Balajadia, Director, Student Development & Activities, San Jose City College
- Brandon Yanari, M.A, Director, Student Outreach & Recruitment, Evergreen Valley College

G1 – EAST 2 HALL
BY THE SWIPING OF MY FINGERS AND THE CLICKING OF MY THUMBS SOMETHING WICKED THIS WAY COMES: AN ADULT'S GUIDE TO HELPING STUDENTS NAVIGATE THE HOUSE OF SMOKE AND MIRRORS (A.K.A. SOCIAL MEDIA)

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

Ray Bradbury's classic 1962 novel Something Wicked This Way Comes describes a sinister carnival that arrives mysteriously in town complete with funhouse mirrors, impossible promises, and dark intentions to ensnare people's souls. Similarly, online social media arrived on the scene with great promise and fanfare but instead had dire consequences for our youth. This session details a research study to identify measurable and teachable concepts that help students understand that there are necessary components of face-to-face human interaction that are a biological necessity (i.e. like food or water) that cannot simply be replaced by convenient online alternatives.

Presenters:

- Edmond Lee, M.A., GEAR UP Director, University of Hawaii at Manoa
- Richard Okubo

G2 – GRAND BALLROOM AB COUNTERING THE SHY GIRL NARRATIVE: LEVERAGING OUR STORIES TO TAKE UP SPACE AND EXPLORE OUR POSSIBILITIES

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

Asian American women (AAW) are labeled as shy, timid, or submissive. These stereotypes can disrupt efforts for AAW to sustain themselves in their journey towards leadership, among marginalizing systems. This interactive workshop will offer authentic narratives from AAW higher education leaders that counter normalized white male leadership standards. Participants will then be guided through a reflective activity and given space to share in hopes of emphasizing love for ourselves, our strengths, and our community, promoting the courage to own our story, and continue empowering others to take action and lead the way for others in the AANHPI community.

Presenters:

- Alexia Theresa Pimentel, M.S.Ed., Student Services Director, UC Berkeley
- Ayra Valerie Agluba, Graduate Assistant, Doctoral Program in Educational Leadership & Master's Candidate, Higher Education Administration and Leadership, both at Fresno State

G3 – GRAND BALLROOM C LAYERS OF IDENTITY: UNPACKING SOUTHEAST ASIAN HERITAGE IN STEPS

Target Audience: New Professionals

In this one-hour lecture/workshop, I will be sharing a little about my own personal journey into research to rediscover my Chinese Cambodian heritage. My workshop informs participants about which methodologies of research helped me as a 2nd generation Asian American to dive deep into my family's lineage by way of genealogical, cultural & spiritual understanding. As scholars, if we are able to understand the layers of our own ethnic identities, we may then have capacity to better serve our own communities & collaborate with others to find success.

Presenters:

- Ryan Samn, Student Life Assistant, Skyline College

G4 – GRAND BALLROOM F NAVIGATING INSTITUTIONAL TURBULENCE: UPHOLDING VALUES OF INCLUSION, LOVE, TEAMWORK, AND KINDNESS

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

In an academic landscape predominantly influenced by white culture, we, as Asian-Pacific Islander women, steadfastly uphold our core values, navigating through turbulence and conflict with unwavering commitment. Our workshop for APAHE 2024 National Conference aims to delve into the critical theme of "Radical Hope: Leading with Love, Courage, and Action" with a particular focus on preserving our foundational values amid institutional turbulence.

Presenters:

- Rolita Flores Ezeonu, Ed.D., Vice President of Instruction, Green River College
- Tsai-En Cheng, M.A., Dean of Branch Locations for Academic and Program Development, Green River College
- Elaine Stricklin, Executive Assistant to the Office of the Vice President of Instruction, Green River College

G5 – GRAND BALLROOM GH PRACTICING HOPE: COMBATING PESSIMISM AND BURNOUT IN THE CLIMATE MOVEMENT

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

Crisis after crisis takes an enormous toll on our mental health, and leads to the burnout of students, academics, and activists. Often, this can erode our hope, and can cause us to fall victim to pessimism. This is dangerous to climate and racial justice movements as it weakens our faith that we can change inequitable systems. To combat pessimism as a tool of capitalism, it is imperative that we create spaces to acknowledge that our community is hurting, and to heal together as a collective. Following

Marama Kaba, this workshop invites us to recenter hope in our work and lives.

Presenters:

- Jed Lee, Wellness and Environmental Justice Community Engagement Manager, Student Environmental Resource Center, UC Berkeley

G6 – JUNIOR BALLROOM 1
HOW ADVISORS ARE TRANSFORMING UC DAVIS INTO THE ALLY STUDENTS NEED

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

Developing Deeper Advising Relationships (DDAR) is a foundational development training program, focused on putting students first and utilizes a social justice and DEI lens, for every advisor on campus and it is paving the way for specific community needs like those of AANHPI students to finally make it into central institutional decision making.

Presenters:

- Eric Sanchez, M.A., Director, Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Education Program, UC Davis
- Christopher Nguyen Pheneger, M.A., Interim Director of Campus Community Engagement, UC Davis
- Kayton Carter, M.A., Executive Director of Academic Advising Enrichment, UC Davis

ACCESS, RELEVANCE, COMMUNITY (ARC):
ETHNIC STUDIES TRANSFER PATHWAYS
BETWEEN SF STATE AND SAN MATEO COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate Students

The Access, Relevance, and Community (ARC) Transfer Pathways Initiative is a collaboration between the College of Ethnic Studies at San Francisco State University (SFSU) and San Mateo County Community College District (SMCCCD). As an AANAPISI project, we work together to address student belonging, transfer student enrollment, and career readiness. In this panel, student peer mentors and staff from SFSU, Cañada College, College of San Mateo, and Skyline College will discuss their work building supportive communities at each school.

Presenters:

- Levalasi Loi-On, M.A., AANAPISI Program Coordinator, SF State
- Arlene Daus-Magbual, Ed.D, Assistant Professor, SF State
- Christine Su, Ph.D, AANAPISI Coordinator, College of San Mateo

- Liza Erpelo, Ed.D, Professor, Skyline College
- Mary Ho, Director of Post-Secondary Success, Ed.D, Cañada College

G8 – JUNIOR BALLROOM 3-4
COALITIONAL RUBRICS UNDER CONDITIONS
OF RESOURCE SCARCITY: CURRICULAR AND
CO-CURRICULAR RETENTION FRAMEWORKS
FOR AANHPI AND NATIVE STUDENTS

Target Audience: Senior-Level Professionals

This workshop will first offer a background and overview of the demographics and retention outlook for AANHPI and Native students at SJSU. Presenters will then demonstrate how they were able to leverage pilot studies and data alongside anti-Asian and anti-Native racism to make a case that warrants such investments in both critical and inclusive curricula as well as key co-curricular programming to improve campus climate and retention outcomes for AANHPI and Native students.

Presenters:

- Yvonne Y. Kwan, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Asian American Studies, San Jose State University
- Elisa Aquino, Program Director of Native American Indigenous Student Success Center, San Jose State University
- Kerri Malloy, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of Native American and Indigenous Studies, San Jose State University
- Soma de Bourbon, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of Sociology, San Jose State University
- Trung Nguyen, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of Asian American Studies, San Jose State University
- Jinni Pradhan, Ph.D., Program Director, Center for Asian Pacific Islander Student Empowerment, San Jose State University

THE IMPORTANCE OF ALLYSHIP IN NAVIGATING ETHNIC STUDIES WARS

Target Audience: Senior-Level Professionals

An alliance of Fresno City College's faculty representing Asian American Studies, American Indian Studies, African American Studies, and Chicanx-Latinx Studies will discuss the importance of Ethnic Studies as an interdisciplinary field that can offer life-changing benefits to historically marginalized students. With the recent passage of laws mandating ethnic studies courses for all students in California's public higher education institutions, panelists will also discuss the issues, challenges, and opportunities in implementing the new Area F graduation requirement. Takeaways will include ideas and strategies that may inform other faculty, staff, and administrators in navigating similar paths on their own campuses.

Presenters:

- Gena Lew Gong, Ed.D., Instructor/Coordinator, Asian American Studies Program, Fresno City College
- Victoria Navarro Benavides, Ph.D., Instructor, Chicanx-Latinx Studies, Fresno City College
- Auguste Kouadio, M.A., Instructor, African American Studies, Fresno City College

GETTING AHEAD: SKILLS FOR CAREER SUCCESS

Target Audience: New Professionals

Having the right mindset, knowledge, and skills to navigate career growth is very important. This workshop offers the perfect opportunity to explore the six skills needed to tackle current and future challenges in a meaningful way. This framework incorporates the unique blend of values, beliefs, and attitudes drawn from our multicultural heritage as Asian and Pacific Islanders.

Presenters:

- Alexander Cena, Chief Program Officer, Leadership Education for Asian Pacifics

“GAY-SIAN”: NAVIGATING HIGHER EDUCATION AS A QUEER IDENTIFIED AAPI LEADER

Target Audience: New Professionals

This session aims to create a supportive space for dialogue, learning, and empowerment as we explore the challenges and triumphs of individuals who navigate multiple identities within the academic landscape through the lens of Queer and AAPI Identities. The sharing of personal narratives can be empowering and validating. Come listen to one senior leader's journey to learn strategies and insights on how to thrive in leadership roles while embracing one's authentic self. Participants will gain valuable perspectives on fostering inclusivity, dismantling stereotypes, and advocating for change within the higher education community.

Presenters:

BLOCK BY BLOCK: THE STRUGGLE TO BUILD THE CHINATOWN/NORTH BEACH CAMPUS AT CITY COLLEGE OF SAN FRANCISCO

Target Audience: Senior-Level Professionals

Block by Block is a powerful 30-minute documentary that highlights the 50-year struggle to build a permanent Chinatown/Beach campus in San Francisco. The story reveals the interplay between the AAPI community, higher education, politics, and powerful business interests in SF. This documentary embodies the themes of this year's APAHE conference.

This struggle required the radical hope of its supporters and took love, courage, and action to triumph and prevail. The panel discussion to follow will be comprised of CCSF leaders, community-based organizations, and APAHE founders, who will be on hand to reflect on the struggle and provide some pearls of wisdom on how to advocate for change "block by block."

Presenters:

- Frank Chong, Ed.D., Former Dean of Student Affairs, City College of San Francisco
- Henry Der, Former Executive Director of Chinese for Affirmative Action

H2 – GRAND BALLROOM AB CAMPUS CLIMATE AND SENSE OF BELONGING ON CAMPUS: INTEGRATING DATA TO SUPPORT AANHPI'S

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

Evaluating the atmosphere on campus is a crucial element in comprehending the perseverance and contentment of every student. This study expands upon existing research by exploring how the perceptions of the campus relate to the overall sense of belonging among Asian American students in a diverse community college setting. The data and insights collected from this study at Golden West College can aid faculty and administrators in enhancing support mechanisms for this expanding undergraduate student demographic, promoting a more fulfilling and successful college experience.

Presenters:

- Tiffany Laiyin Lao, M.A., Professor of ESL, Golden West College

H3 – GRAND BALLROOM C 2-YEAR VS. 4-YEAR INSTITUTIONS: EXPLORING DIVERSITY, EQUITY, AND INCLUSION (DEI) WORK THROUGH AN ACADEMIC AND STUDENT AFFAIRS LENS

Target Audience: Undergraduate/Graduate
Students

In this session, we will be exploring diversity and identity work through the lens of a student affairs professional at a 4-year institution and a counselor/faculty at a 2-year institution. Presenters will share their experiences navigating the different institutions with key differences and similarities to help attendees interested in diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) and cultural identity work to navigate their own career trajectories in higher education.

Presenters:

- Anh Le, M.Ed., Assistant Dean, Mentorship Programs & Student Development, Claremont McKenna College
- Kevin Dimatulac, M.Ed., Tenured Equity Counselor, Glendale Community College

H4 – GRAND BALLROOM F THREADS OF LOVE: EXPLORING HOBBIES FOR MENTAL HEALTH AND WELL-BEING

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

This workshop encourages participants to reflect on and explore the positive impact hobbies can have on mental health. The presenter will weave a narrative of their personal journey beyond the professional realm, exploring hobbies such as puppetry and needle felting. This narrative will intertwine with themes of self-care, addressing perfectionism, and fostering the courage to embrace continuous learning. It is a journey that can create a ripple effect of compassion towards others. Participants will also have an opportunity to brainstorm actionable steps for prioritizing their well-being.

Presenters:

- Julie Nguyen, Ed.D., Director of Student Career Development, Boston University Metropolitan College

ASIAN AMERICAN STUDIES NOW: CONTEMPORARY OPPORTUNITIES AND CHALLENGES IN HIGHER EDUCATION

Target Audience: Mid-Level Professionals

On August 17, 2020, California Governor Gavin Newsom signed Assembly Bill 1460 requiring all students enrolled on the 23 California State University campuses to take a 3-unit class in Native American Studies, African American Studies, Asian American Studies or Latina and Latino Studies. The implementation of AB 1460 has led to curricular changes in the Community Colleges and reinvigorated historical and contemporary debates on diversity requirements in the University of California system. Presenters will not only highlight the efforts to pass AB 1460 in the state legislature, but also address strategies for overcoming obstacles in implementing the Ethnic Studies requirement.

Presenters:

- Timothy P. Fong, Ph.D., Professor, Department of Ethnic Studies Director and Principal Investigator, Full Circle Project Co-Principal Investigator, Pathways Fellows Program, California State University, Sacramento
- Jocelyn A. Pacleb, Ph.D., Professor and Department Chair, Ethnic & Women’s Studies, Cal Poly Pomona
- Yvonne Y. Kwan, Ph.D., Associate Professor, Program Coordinator, Asian American Studies, San Jose State University

(MORNING)

P1 – GRAND BALLROOM FOYER ACADEMIA OR INDUSTRY: ASIAN PACIFIC ISLANDER DOCTORAL STUDENTS’ JOURNEY NAVIGATING DIVERSE CAREER PATHWAY

Studies have shown that the lack of diversity in the professoriate may potentially impact the future pipeline of Asian Pacific Islander (API) doctoral students. This mixed-methods study will examine factors driving API doctoral students’ career choices and whether there were differences between API doctoral students’ career aspirations in pushing for academic jobs or industry jobs.

Presenters:

- Marlena Vi Wolfgramm, Ph.D., Postdoctoral Researcher, Council of Graduate Schools
- Enyu Zhou

P2 – GRAND BALLROOM FOYER FILIPINO ENOUGH: RACISM & FILIPINO AMERICAN STUDENT LEADERSHIP

This study examines the phenomena of racism among Filipino American student leaders. The theoretical frameworks Critical Race Theory and Asian Critical Theory offered lenses that assisted in the formulation of the research questions, analysis of the literature review, and analysis of the findings. This study concludes that Filipino American student leaders actively combat racialization within themselves and from others, persevere against structures that perpetuate racialization when they’re grounded in themselves, their peers, and their community, and experience discrimination across multiple leadership roles, among communities of color, and within the Asian American community.

Presenters:

- Janrey Javier, M.A., Student Engagement Manager, University of California, Berkeley

P3 – GRAND BALLROOM FOYER RADICAL HOPE IN STEM: NAVIGATING IDENTITY AND CHOICE AMONG FILIPINX AMERICAN STUDENTS

Explore the complex interplay of historical trauma, colonization, and racial discrimination in shaping the career choices of Filipinx American STEM students at a California R1 University. This insightful presentation employs Critical Race Theory and decolonial intersectionality to analyze how microaggressions, colonial legacies, and societal racism impact these students’ sense of belonging and decision-making in STEM fields. Attendees will gain an in-depth understanding of the unique challenges faced by Filipinx Americans in higher education and learn strategies to foster more inclusive and supportive academic environments. Key takeaways include practical implications for enhancing Filipina/x/o American students’ educational and career development in STEM.

Presenters:

CLINICIANS’ EXPERIENCES IMPLEMENTING
MULTIDIMENSIONAL FAMILY THERAPY WITH BILINGUAL (SPANISH/ENGLISH) AND TRILINGUAL (SPANISH/ENGLISH/MIXTEC)
FAMILIES

Multidimensional Family Therapy (MDFT) aids adolescents battling substance abuse, emphasizing enhanced family communication. Existing literature targets English speakers, and assessing MDFT’s efficacy in multilingual households is imperative. This study, involving interviews with therapists, uncovers key themes like cultural competence, family dynamics, and language in therapy, urging further investigation in diverse families.

Presenters:

- Jacqueline Lopez, McNair Scholar, HSF Scholar, EOP Chicana/Latinx Cultural Resource Center PM, Diversity in Healthcare Scholar, University of California, Santa Barbara
- Jill Sharkey, Ph.D., Associate Dean & Professor, University of California, Santa Barbara

P6 – GRAND BALLROOM FOYER
MODERN FILIPINOS IN THE MENTAL HEALTH FIELD

As Filipinos, it is significant for us to create dialogue around mental health, especially for the generation that was born here, who may feel disconnected from our roots. Because Filipinos have roots that stem from colonization and different cultural influences, our stories tend to be even more forgotten. By building representation for Filipinos, we are creating a space that makes Filipinos feel safer. We create a space for Filipinos to engage and believe that this field is just as important as any other medical field we are expected to be a part of.

BECOMING CHINESE: RE-LEARNING
CULTURAL ROOTS AS A FIRST GENERATION
CHINESE AMERICAN

This poster will present a personal experiment in a community college student’s attempt at becoming more culturally Chinese as a first generation Asian American who was not taught the culture. The project focuses on the Cultural Iceberg Model coined by Edward T. Hall and how aspects of the Iceberg can be implemented into daily life, showing that is never too late to keep in touch with one’s family’s history and to take pride of the intersectionality as a First Generation Asian American.

Presenters:

P8 – GRAND BALLROOM FOYER
FILIPINO/A/X AMERICAN ETHNIC IDENTITY AND SENSE OF BELONGING IN COLLEGE

Filipino/a/x Americans are coined as the ‘invisible Asian Americans’ by Cordova (1983). Researchers argue that vital to understanding the experiences of current Filipino/a/x American college students is analyzing the population in the context of colonialism, its legacies, and its contemporary implications (David et al., 2017). Thus, this literature reviews the experiences of Filipino/a/x Americans in higher education within the context of its colonial history and legacy. Understanding the context and impact of history has benefits and implications in higher education attempting to implement more culturally responsive resources and approaches into their institution.

Presenters:

- Myra Dayrit, Undergraduate Student Researcher, Chapman University

P10 – GRAND BALLROOM FOYER WHAT IS AAPI? NOVA'S PHOTOVOICE PROJECT

This photo project allows peer mentors and mentees in NOVA's AAPI Connect program to answer the questions "what does being AAPI mean to me?" and "what is it like being AAPI at NOVA?" Capturing their own opinions and perceptions through photography assignments, and thus centering their own voices, students will collectively decide on common themes, issues, or concerns they face in the community college space. This data will be used to inform administrators, faculty, and staff about the AAPI population at NOVA, and hopefully influence policy change and assistance to our community.

SPEAKERS

Michael V. Drake, M.D.

In August 2020, Michael V. Drake, M.D., became the 21st president of the University of California's system of 10 campuses, six academic health centers, three affiliated national laboratories, more than 290,000 students and 230,000 faculty and staff. President Drake also holds faculty appointments at the UCSF School of Medicine as a professor of ophthalmology and at the UC Riverside School of Medicine as a professor of medicine. President Drake served as the 15th president of The Ohio State University (OSU) from 2014 through June 2020. Prior to his six years at OSU, his entire academic career had been at the University of California, including nine years as chancellor of UC Irvine (2005–2014) and five years as UC systemwide vice president for health affairs (2000–2005). President Drake received his A.B. from Stanford University and his M.D. and residency training from UCSF.

Rose Ann Rico Eborda Gutierrez, Ph.D.

Rose Ann Rico Eborda Gutierrez obtained her Ph.D. at University of California, Los Angeles in Social Sciences and Comparative Education with a specialization in Race and Ethnic Studies. Her research is informed by a Pinay epistemology and positionality as a 1.5-generation immigrant, first-generation college student, and the only daughter of working-class Pilipino immigrants. Her critical analytical lens as a race scholar in education undergirds her resolve to improve the conditions and opportunities of historically oppressed communities across the lifespan through educational research and practice. Her broader research agenda examines the relationship between knowledge, race, and social transformation in higher education contexts and is anchored by critical theories and critical qualitative methodologies.

She focuses on low-income, immigrant, immigrant-origin, undocumented, and first-generation Students of Color, and more specifically, Asian American and Pacific Islander students. She has published in Educational Researcher, Journal of Diversity in Higher Education, and Community College Review.

Vincent Pan

Vincent Pan is the Co-Executive Director for Chinese for Affirmative Action (CAA), a community-based social justice organization in San Francisco. CAA advocates for systemic change that protects immigrant rights, promotes language diversity, and advances racial justice. At CAA, Vincent is helping to lead Asian Americans for Civil Rights and Equality, a new network-based approach for movement building.

Prior to CAA, Vincent worked with the Clinton Foundation on treatment programs for children living with HIV/AIDS in China. Before that he co-founded and led Heads Up, which ran after-school and summer programs by enlisting college students as AmeriCorps members.

Vincent's community involvement includes former and current service on the board of the Center for Asian American Media, the steering committee of API Equality – Northern California, the board of CompassPoint Nonprofit Services, and as a member of the San Francisco Police Commission.

Vincent holds a degree in Economics from Harvard University, and has been a Fellow with the Center for Social Innovation at Stanford University, the Echoing Green Foundation, and the Stride Rite Foundation.

Vikash Reddy, Ph.D.

Vikash Reddy has over 15 years of experience in higher education research, with particular expertise in outcomes-based funding policies and developmental education reforms. Prior to joining the Campaign, Vikash was a Policy Analyst at the California Policy Lab at UC Berkeley, where he worked with California government agencies including the California Community College Chancellor's Office and the California Student Aid Commission to analyze administrative data and evaluate pilot programs. Vikash previously worked at the Community College Research Center and the Center for the Analysis of Postsecondary Readiness at Teachers College, Columbia University, where he co-authored books and articles on performance funding in higher education, researched reforms in developmental education, and helped to create and evaluate multiple measures placement systems at the State University of New York.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER & PACESETTER AWARD

Wenda Fong

Wenda Fong began her 40-plus-year career in television as the producer and host of her live talk show series in Los Angeles. She is also the producer and director of music and variety specials, awards shows, reality specials, sitcoms, talk shows, documentaries, PSAs, and live events. She holds the dual distinction of being the first person of color and woman to have produced the Emmy Awards. She has launched productions across the United States and worldwide, including China, Canada, Europe, and Africa.

Fong earned her Bachelor of Arts in Asian American Studies from the University of Southern California.

COMMUNITY CHAMPION AWARD

Robert A. Underwood, Ed.D.

The Honorable Robert Underwood served as the 10th President of the University of Guam. He is both a President Emeritus and Professor Emeritus of the University of Guam and is a distinguished educator with many publications and major presentations to his credit. He is the longest-serving President of UOG.

He served five terms as Guam's Congressional Delegate (1993–2003) and was a senior member of both the Armed Services and Resources Committees in the U.S. House of Representatives. He authored major pieces of legislation for Guam and the insular areas, served as Chair of the Congressional Asian Pacific American Caucus and was ranking member of several panels and subcommittees. In these capacities, he was a national leader in strengthening security relationships in the Asia Pacific region, fought discrimination against immigrants and minorities and enhanced educational opportunities for Asian Pacific Islander Americans.

KEYNOTE SPEAKER & APAHE CEO AWARDEE

Frank H. Wu, JD

Frank H. Wu is the eleventh President of Queens College. He served as Chancellor and Dean and then William L. Prosser Distinguished Professor at the institution now known as UC College of the Law, San Francisco. He was a faculty member at Howard University, for a decade and also served as Dean of Wayne State University Law School in his hometown of Detroit.

Frank is the author of Yellow: Race in America Beyond Black and White, and co-author of Race, Rights and Reparation: Law and the Japanese American Internment.

APAHE CEO AWARDEES

Galvin Deleon Guerrero, Ed.D.

Galvin Deleon Guerrero is the president of Northern Marianas College. With almost 30 years of teaching and leadership experience in K-12 and higher education, he holds a Bachelor's of Arts degree in English literature, a Masters of Arts degree in School Administration, and an Education Doctorate in Organizational Change Leadership. He has also taught English and social studies at the secondary and post-secondary levels; has coached speech, debate, and mock trial; and has produced over 50 stage and film productions as a dramatist and filmmaker.

Julie Chen, Ph.D.

Julie Chen was named chancellor of UMass Lowell after leading the university's growing research franchise into a nearly $95 million annual operation. Unanimously appointed by the UMass trustees in May 2022, Chen assumed her role as UMass Lowell's fourth chancellor — and just the second woman to lead the university of more than 18,000 students — on July 1, 2022.

Chen previously served as vice chancellor for research and economic development, a role that included managing industry partnerships, technology transfer, startups and innovation, core research facilities and economic development programs.

As UMass Lowell's chief research officer, Chen facilitated numerous innovative models that brought together industry, government and academia.

Sonya Christian, Ph.D.

Sonya Christian is currently the Chancellor of the California Community Colleges, the largest system of higher education in the nation, serving over 1.9 million students across 116 colleges. Dr. Christina is a fierce advocate for the life-changing ability of community colleges to reach underserved populations and educate the future workforce. She is committed to advancing work through distributed leadership and collaborative communities of learning and to promoting the value of equity in student learning, access, success, and economic mobility

LAND ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Julie Dominguez

Member & Tribal Ambassador of the Muwekma Ohlone Tribe of the San Francisco Bay Area

Julie is a member and tribal ambassador of the Muwekma Ohlone Tribe of the San Francisco Bay Area and is an advocate for the protection of land and waterways on her ancestral homelands. Following her mother's leadership on food justice, she is an advocate for underrepresented communities, including her tribe. She lives in San Jose with her two sons, is a California Native dancer, and is a lover of art, music, and culture. Her family is supporting the revitalization of dance, culture, and tradition with the Muwekma Ohlone Tribe of the San Francisco Bay Area. Julie also serves on the Advisory Board for Green Foothills. Julie will now be reading a land acknowledgment following a blessing in her native language.

Asian Pacific Americans in Higher Education (APAHE) Muwekma Ohlone Tribe Land Acknowledgement

The Asian Pacific Americans in Higher Education National Conference recognizes that the present-day Muwekma Ohlone Tribe of the San Francisco Bay Area, is the aboriginal tribe of the greater City of Oakland region, and is comprised of all of the known surviving American Indian lineages aboriginal to the San Francisco Bay region who trace their ancestry through the Missions San Francisco (1776), Santa Clara (1777), and San José (1797), during the expansion of the Hispano-European empire into Alta California; and who are the successors and living members of the sovereign, historic, previously Federally Recognized Verona Band of Alameda County. Furthermore, the Asian Pacific Americans in Higher Education National Conference also recognizes that the City of Oakland and surrounding regions is established within the greater intermarried Huchiun, Huchiun-Aguasto, Carquin, Jalquin, Saclan, Ancestral Muwekma Ohlone/Bay Miwok speaking tribal ethnohistoric territories, which based upon the unratified federal treaties of 1851-1852, includes the unceded ancestral lands of the Muwekma Ohlone Tribe of the San Francisco Bay Area. It is our honor to recognize the over 10,000 year history and heritage of the Muwekma Ohlone Tribe of the San Francisco Bay Region.
